Overview of the Toolkit

Overview of the Toolkit

The No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB Act) reauthorized the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) and provided a framework through which families, educators, and communities can work together to improve teaching and learning. Four principles guide this framework:

1. accountability for results,
2. local control and flexibility,
3. expanded parental choice, and
4. effective and successful programs that reflect scientifically based research.

The parental involvement provisions of Title I, Part A of the ESEA reflect these principles. Specifically, the provisions stress the following:

- ❖ shared accountability between schools and parents for high student achievement, including expanded School Choice and Supplemental Educational Services for eligible children in low-performing schools,
- ❖ local development of parental involvement plans with sufficient flexibility to address local needs, and
- ❖ building parents' capacity for using effective practices to improve their own child's academic achievement.

The new Title I, Part A is designed not only to help close the achievement gap between disadvantaged and minority students and their peers, but also to change the culture of America's schools so that success is defined in terms of student achievement and in each school's investment in every child.¹ As indicated by the parental involvement provisions in Title I, Part A, the involvement of parents in their child's education and schools is critical to that process. Secretary Paige put it succinctly when he stated, "Schools can't improve without the help of parents."²

Three decades of research provide convincing evidence that parents are an important influence in helping their child achieve high academic standards. When schools collaborate with parents to help their child learn and when parents participate in school activities and decision making about their child's education, children achieve at higher levels. In short, when parents are involved in education, children do better in school and schools improve.³

Purpose for the Toolkit

This toolkit is designed to provide information to those who are implementing Title I Part A parental involvement provisions.

Toolkit Sections

This toolkit is divided into sections that align to the legislation and previous guidance the Department has provided on Title I, Part A. Each section includes an explanation of relevant statute as well as sample forms or practices to assist in the implementation of the parental involvement provisions. The toolkit contains the following sections:

Section 1: Introduction to the Toolkit—Information on the focus, content, and organization of the toolkit

Section 2: Overview of Applicable

Requirements—General information regarding the Title I, Part A regulations and non-regulatory parental involvement provisions

Section 3: State Responsibilities—

Parental involvement requirements for SEAs

Section 4: LEA Responsibilities—

Parental involvement requirements for LEAs

Section 5: School Responsibilities—

Parental involvement requirements for schools

Section 6: LEA and School Responsibilities to Build

Capacity—Parental involvement requirements for LEAs and schools to build parents' capacity for becoming involved in improving their child's academic achievement

Appendix B: Other Resources—Title of other U.S. Department of Education resources

Unless otherwise indicated, forms, letters, and other information provided in the toolkit are not official U.S. Department of Education documents, and they are not endorsed by the Department. Instead, these are documents that LEA and private school officials have found helpful in carrying out Title I, Part A parental notification and involvement requirements and are willing to share with other practitioners. These sample documents may be useful to you as is, or they may need to be adapted to meet your local circumstances.

How to Use the Toolkit

The toolkit is designed to provide two types of information:

1. Explanations for Title I, Part A notification and involvement provisions—This text describes the actions and processes SEAs, LEAs, and schools must take to meet the provisions of Title I, Part A.
2. Possible tools—These tools provide examples of information sheets, checklists, letters, surveys, and other resources SEAs, LEAs, and schools use to assist them in implementing Title I, Part A notification and involvement provisions.

Documents included in the toolkit have been adapted to fit the purposes and format of this publication. However, users will find the sources listed in Appendix A.

2 Overview of Applicable Requirements

Overview of Applicable Requirements

Parental involvement always has been a centerpiece of Title I. The statute defines the term “parental involvement” as the participation of parents in regular, two-way, and meaningful communication involving student academic learning and other school activities, including ensuring

- ❖ that parents play an integral role in assisting their child’s learning;
- ❖ that parents are encouraged to be actively involved in their child’s education at school;
- ❖ that parents are full partners in their child’s education and are included, as appropriate, in decision making and on advisory committees to assist in the education of their child; and
- ❖ the carrying out of other activities, such as those described in Section 1118. [Section 9101(32), ESEA]

This definition for parental involvement sets the parameters, in conjunction with other sections of the law by which SEAs, LEAs, and schools will implement programs, activities, and procedures to involve parents in Title I, Part A programs.

In the provisions, the term “parent” includes in addition to a natural parent, a legal guardian or other person standing in loco parentis (such as grandparent or step parent with whom the child lives, or a person who is legally responsible for the child’s welfare). [Section 9101(31), ESEA]

Importance of Parental Involvement

A synthesis of the research concluded that “the evidence is consistent, positive, and convincing: families have a major influence on their child’s achievement in school and through life. When schools, families, and community groups work together to support learning, children tend to do better in school, stay in school longer, and like school more.”¹

Studies have found that students with involved parents, no matter what their income or background, are more likely to

- ❖ earn high grades and test scores, and enroll in higher-level programs;
- ❖ pass their classes, earn credits, and be promoted;
- ❖ attend school regularly; and
- ❖ graduate and go on to postsecondary education.²

Key Parental Involvement Provisions

Title I, Part A provides for substantive parental involvement at every level of the program, such as in the development and implementation of the state and local plan, and in carrying out the LEA and school improvement provisions. Section 1118 contains the primary Title I, Part A requirements for SEAs, LEAs, and schools related to involving parents in their child’s education. It is this section that identifies critical points in the process of improving teaching and learning where parents and the community can intervene and assist in school improvement. Although Section 1118 is extensive in scope and has many requirements for LEAs and schools, the intent is not to be burdensome. These provisions reflect good practice in engaging families in helping to educate their child, because students do better when parents are actively involved in the education process, both at home and at school.

Parental Involvement Provisions— Communication in General

Because regular communication is the foundation of effective parental involvement, SEAs, LEAs, and schools must provide information to parents of students participating in Title I, Part A programs in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request and, “to the extent practicable,” in a language that parents can understand. [Sections 1118(b)(1), 1118(e)(5), 1118(f)]

Other Languages: Written translations of printed information must be provided to parents with limited English proficiency in a language they understand, or, if not practicable, orally in a language that parents understand. SEAs and LEAs have flexibility in determining what mix of oral and written translation services may be necessary and reasonable for communicating the required information to parents with limited English proficiency. [Title I, Part A Final Regulations, 67 Fed. Reg. 71749 - 50, Comments and Discussion on Section 200.36; available at the U.S. Department of Education Web site at <http://www.ed.gov/legislation/FedRegister/finrule/2002-4/120202a.html>]

Parents with Disabilities: In providing alternative formats for parents with disabilities, SEAs and LEAs must take the necessary steps to ensure that communications with these parents are as effective as communications with other parents. Those steps include that the SEAs, LEAs, and schools must furnish appropriate auxiliary aids and services when necessary to afford a parent with a disability an equal opportunity to participate in, and enjoy the benefits of, Title I, Part A programs, services, and activities, including the parental involvement provisions.

The SEA, LEA, or school must give primary consideration to the expressed choice of the parent with disabilities by honoring that choice, unless the SEA, LEA, or school can demonstrate that another effective means of communication exists, or that use of the means chosen by the parent would result in a fundamental alteration of the service, program, or activity or in an undue financial and administrative burden. NCLB and PL 0101 In Brief

NCLB refers to the No Child Left Behind federal law that affects all public schools, and in some case private schools, in the United States.

P.L. 0101 is the state’s education law that requires all schools to teach specific skills at each grade level.

AYP refers to Adequate Yearly Progress, the established annual baseline for schools. The baseline is raised each year.

Brief Description of NCLB Provisions	Brief Description of P.L. 0101 Provisions
Academic Goals (Standards)
All schools must maintain a list of the academic goals for each grade level.	The state department of education develops and publicly shares education goals at every grade level (K–12) in consultation with a Committee of Practitioners for reading, writing, math, science, and social studies. The Committee of Practitioners must include school leaders and teachers and may include community leaders, higher education representatives, and parents.
Teacher Qualifications
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Each year local districts must offer to provide information to parents about the qualifications of the teachers and paraprofessionals who teach their child. ▪ If a child is taught for more than 4 weeks by a teacher who does not meet the standard for a highly qualified teacher, parents must be informed. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ The state department requires that all core teachers meet the standard for highly qualified teachers. ▪ The state department must work with higher education and other teacher preparation agencies to ensure that course work and practicums as required are available across the state. ▪ The state department of education also administers tests for all teaching and administrative professionals

Every school must <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ provide tests on a yearly basis to check for student knowledge and educational progress in order to determine proficiency in meeting state curriculum standards; ▪ administer the math and language arts/reading assessments in all grades 3–8 and at least once in grades 10–12 and science achievement tests at least once in grades 3–5, 6–9, and 10–12; and ▪ provide and publish performance results for the state department of education, local districts, and schools and provide results in categories (disaggregated) by economic background, race and ethnicity, English proficiency, and disability. Tool 2.2: A Parental Involvement Checklist for District and School Administrators

Description

There are many requirements related to parental involvement across the Title I, Part A programs. This tool gives users an idea of the scope of the parental involvement provisions.

This tool is intended to be a quick reference guide to providing information regarding when and how to apply the requirements as well as the types of documentation the SEA will need for Title I, Part A monitoring. In the chart that follows, each requirement is detailed with a reference to public law, the specific title program, who is responsible for fulfilling the requirement, and when it should be completed.

Distribution

This tool can be distributed through school improvement conferences or meetings as well as through the Internet.

Suggestions for Use

LEA and school staff can use this tool to self-monitor compliance with the provisions.

SEA staff can suggest that LEAs and schools use it to check off items as completed.

LEA and school staff can use color-coding to highlight responsibilities or types of action to help staff understand their role in parental notification. Staff could also use this chart to help them determine the types of documentation they need for monitoring (i.e., copies of letters, brochures, meeting notes, or other documents).

Tool 2.3: Timeline for Title I, Part A Programs

Description

This tool provides an example of a timeline chart to help SEAs, LEAs, and schools track their events, actions, and notifications related to Title I, Part A. While there are numerous ways to set up a timeline chart and more events that can be added, this example demonstrates the value of providing a list of key items to help SEA, LEA, and school staff meet expectations.

Distribution

Developers of tools such as this one can distribute it through school improvement conferences or meetings, as well as through the Internet. SEAs and LEAs may want to share appropriate sections throughout the year to give all staff notice and reminders of due dates.

Suggestions for Use

SEAs, LEAs, and schools can keep this chart at hand when designing the school calendar and during the planning process for Title I, Part A programs. Sharing these dates with staff at all levels, as well as parents and the community as appropriate, will help to build support for the work.

State Responsibilities

3 State Responsibilities

SEAs must assist LEAs and schools in their efforts to support parental involvement. They must do this by

- ❖ Supporting the collection and dissemination of effective parental involvement practices to its LEAs and schools. Those practices must be based on the most current research and meet the highest professional and technical standards on effective parental involvement that fosters increased achievement for all children. In addition, those practices must be geared toward lowering barriers to greater participation by parents in school planning, review, and improvement experiences. [Section 1111(d), ESEA]
- ❖ Providing technical assistance to LEAs and schools that is designed to improve teaching and learning, including technical assistance relating to parental involvement under Title I, Part A, Section 1118. [Section 1111(c)(4), ESEA]

Consulting with Parents on the State Title I Plan

An SEA must consult with parents, along with others, such as LEAs, in developing its state plan. [Section 1111(a)(1), ESEA]

Reviewing LEA Title I Plans and Progress

Plan Review: An SEA must review each LEA's plan to determine if the LEA's parental involvement activities meet the requirements of Section 1118. [Section 1112(e)(3), ESEA]

Progress Review: As a part of its annual yearly progress review of each LEA receiving Title I, Part A funds, the SEA must determine if each LEA is, among other things, carrying out its responsibilities under Section 1118 with respect to parental involvement. [Section 1116(c)(1)(A), ESEA]

The SEA must publicize and disseminate the results of this review to its LEAs, teachers and other staff, parents, students, and the community. [Section 1116(c)(1)(B), ESEA]

Information and Technical Assistance to Parents

State Report Cards: State report cards must include information related to assessments, accountability, and teacher quality, and must include data from all LEAs in the state. A description of each of the data elements (assessments, accountability, teacher quality) for State report cards is included in the Report Cards, Title I, Part A, Non-Regulatory Guidance, available at <http://www.ed.gov/programs/titleiparta/reportcardsguidance.doc>.

The information in the report cards must be in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request, and, “to the extent practicable,” in a language that parents understand. [Section 1111(h)(1)(B)(ii), ESEA]

Individual Student Assessment Reports:

A central requirement of the Title I, Part A is that SEAs, in consultation with LEAs, must implement a set of high-quality, yearly student academic assessments that include, at a minimum, academic assessments in mathematics, reading or language arts, and (beginning with school year 2007–2008) science. As a part of this assessment system, SEAs must produce individual student interpretive, descriptive, and diagnostic reports that allow parents, teachers, and principals to understand and address the specific academic needs of each student. These reports must also include information regarding achievement on academic assessments aligned with each State’s academic achievement standards. SEAs must provide these reports to parents, teachers, and principals of all public schools as soon as possible after the assessments are given. The information must be provided to parents in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request and, to the extent practicable, in a language that parents can understand. [Section 1111(b)(3)(C)(xii), ESEA] (See Section 2, page 8 for a detailed explanation of “to the extent practicable.”)

About School Improvement

Notifications: Throughout the school improvement process, the appropriate entity—the SEA, LEA, or school—must communicate with the parents of each child attending a school identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring. The information must be provided to parents directly, by such means as regular mail or e-mail. If the SEA does not have access to individual student addresses, it may provide the information to the LEAs or schools for distribution to parents.

The SEA, LEA, or school must also provide information to parents during the school improvement process by broader means of dissemination, such as the Internet, media, or public agencies, that serve the student population and their families. All communications must respect the privacy of students and their families. [Section 200.36 of the Title I Regulations and Section 1116, ESEA]

LEA Identified for Improvement or

Corrective Action: An SEA must promptly notify the parents of each student enrolled in a school served by an LEA that the LEA has been identified for School Improvement or Corrective Action. The notice must include information about the results of the SEA’s annual progress review of schools served by the LEA in meeting the state’s student academic achievement standards; whether the LEA is carrying out its responsibilities for Sections 1116, 1117, 1118, and 1119; the reasons for the identification; and how parents can participate in upgrading the quality of the LEA. [Section 1116 (c)(1) and (6), ESEA]

In the case of an LEA identified for Corrective Action, the SEA must publish and disseminate to parents and the public information on corrective actions taken by the SEA. [Section 1116(c)(10)(E), ESEA]

School Improvement—Technical Assistance to LEAs or Schools

For each LEA that the SEA identifies for School Improvement, the SEA must provide technical or other assistance, if requested, to better enable the LEA to develop and implement the LEA’s plan and work with schools needing School Improvement. This technical assistance 1) must be provided by the SEA or an entity authorized by the SEA, and 2) must be supported by effective methods and instructional strategies from scientifically based research (SBR). This technical assistance must address problems, if any, in implementing the parental involvement activities in Section 1118. [Section 1116(c)(9), ESEA]

Tool 3.1: State Parental Involvement Plan

This tool serves as an example of one SEA’s plan for supporting LEAs and schools in implementing the provisions of Title I, Part A, Sections 1111, 1112, and 1118. Further, it also provides a clear explanation of the state’s vision for parental involvement.

Tool 3.2: SEA Action Plan

While the previous tool provided an example of an SEA plan, this tool offers samples of another type of SEA planning—an action planner. It includes a list of goals, strategies to support the goals, and activities to achieve each goal. This tool does not provide an exhaustive list of goals, strategies, and activities, but it does provide insight into the use of this type of tool.

Tool 3.3: SEA Action Plan Implementation Checklist

This tool provides an example of a process for determining if SEAs have fully implemented their plan for supporting parental involvement. Typically, SEA staff would create this type of tool as they develop their plan for supporting parental involvement efforts.

Tool 3.4: SEA Compliance Monitoring Checklist for LEAs

This tool provides a sampling of indicators from a monitoring checklist. Any SEA using this type of document will need to carefully correlate compliance requirements and documentation/evidence with the state’s Title I, Part A plan.

Tool 3.5: SEA Compliance Monitoring Checklist for LEAs

This tool is a second monitoring checklist sample. It focuses on a broad scope of indicators and categories, demonstrating the role of parental involvement in the Title I, Part A provisions. Any SEA using this type of document will need to carefully correlate the indicators to the state’s Title I, Part A plan.

Tool 3.6: Template for LEA School Improvement

This tool contains samples from a template that SEAs can provide to LEAs to support their development of an improvement plan that includes processes and procedures to support parental involvement as defined in Title I, Part A. When SEAs create these types of templates, they should also ensure that other tools, such the checklists and monitoring instruments, are aligned to them.

Suggestions for Use

SEAs can share this document with LEAs, schools, community groups, and parents to demonstrate the state's vision for parental involvement.

SEAs can use this type of document to help guide their efforts as they create their parental involvement monitoring instruments.

SEAs can use this type of document to monitor their own progress in supporting parental involvement.

LEAs and schools can use this type of document as a tool to ensure that their own planning and efforts are aligned to the state's plan.

Parental Involvement: A Plan for the State

Mission:

The mission of the state public education system is to ensure that all children have equal access to a quality education that enables them to achieve their potential and fully participate now and in the future in the social, economic, and educational opportunities of our state and nation. (State P.L.0101; Title I, Part A)

Vision:

Parents, families, educators, and community members work together as full partners, hold themselves mutually accountable, and have the knowledge, skills, and confidence to succeed in improving achievement for all students.

Principles:

To achieve this vision we embrace these principles:

- parents, families, educators, and communities are accountable for improving student achievement by supporting parent/family involvement.
- the SEA monitors this shared responsibility and provides an annual report of progress to the public.
- schools provide a welcoming, trustful, and engaging environment.
- through ongoing training, the SEA, institutions of higher learning, education service centers, local education agencies, campuses, parent-teacher organizations, and community organizations build the capacity of parents/families and educators to act as full partners, informed decision makers, and effective advocates for children.
- schools and school systems respond to such barriers as language, culture, education levels, and work schedules of parents/families that may limit opportunities to participate fully in the education of their child.
- parents/families support their child's learning at home and in school and serve as their child's advocate.

- parents, families, educators, and community members advocate for all children.

Goals:

I. Communication

The SEA

- encourages LEAs to promote regular, two-way communication between home and school.
- encourages LEAs to promote a safe and open atmosphere for parents/families to visit the school their child attends and actively solicit parent/family support and assistance for school programs.
- collects effective parent/family involvement practices and disseminates them to all local education agencies (LEAs) and education service centers.
- communicates, using varied methods, media, resources, and languages, the rights and responsibilities of parents/families to develop and respond to education policy, procedures, and practices at the state, local, and campus levels.
- encourages LEAs to develop parent information and outreach centers.
- ensures that LEAs disseminate information to parents on all required notifications.

II. Accountability

The SEA

- ensures parent/family involvement practices meet the highest professional and technical standards.
- reviews the parent/family involvement policies and practices of LEAs to determine if the policies and practices meet the requirements of Title I, Part A. [Section 1112(e)(3), ESEA]

III. Partnership

The SEA

- collaborates with parents, families, school staff, and community members to ensure all children receive a high-quality education.
- supports the development of trusting and respectful relationships among parents, families, educators, and community members.
- ensures all parents/families are supported as concerned and involved partners, regardless of income, education, or cultural background, who want children to learn and achieve at high levels.
- works with LEAs to ensure that parents are full partners in decision making and on advisory committees, as appropriate, to assist in the education of their child.

IV. Promote Active Involvement

The SEA

- ensures that LEAs accommodate barriers that may limit parent/family opportunities to participate fully in the education of their child.
- fosters attainment of high parent/family involvement standards that reduce barriers to greater participation by parents/families in school planning, review, and improvement.
- encourages LEAs to ensure that parents play an integral role in assisting their child's learning.

V. Training for Educators and Parents/Families

The SEA

- develops the capacity of LEA staff to work with parents/families.
- ensures that LEAs build the capacity of parents/families to participate in meaningful ways in the education of their child.

- supports programs that help parents/families guide children’s learning from preschool through high school (i.e., literacy, study skills, technology applications).
- ensures that the LEA assesses parent/family and community involvement training needs and provides appropriate technical assistance training, resources, and mentoring.
- encourages LEAs, education service centers, colleges, universities, community organizations, and agencies to develop and offer professional development on parent/family involvement for current teachers, administrators, and other school staff.
- ensures that LEAs include parent/family and community involvement measures in their local assessment of training needs.
- encourages colleges and universities to develop coursework in parent/family and community involvement for all undergraduate students seeking teaching certification in Texas.
- ensures that LEAs offer parent/family learning workshops on relevant topics to be held at convenient times and places easily accessible to all families.

VI. Community Resources

The SEA

- encourages LEAs to support parental/family involvement.
- encourages LEAs to build strong connections among schools, local businesses, community organizations, and agencies.
- encourages LEAs to collaborate with local businesses in identifying and implementing education-friendly practices.

Tool 3.2: SEA Action Plan

Description

While the previous tool provided an example of an SEA plan, this tool offers samples of another type of SEA planning—an action planner. It includes a list of goals, strategies to support the goals, and activities to achieve each goal. This tool does not provide an exhaustive list of goals, strategies, and activities, but it does provide insight into the use of an action plan tool.

Distribution

Though this tool may have relevance to a broader audience, its primary user would be SEA staff or possibly the Committee of Practitioners who guide implementation and planning of Title I, Part A efforts.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this type of tool to help SEA staff check off tasks to be completed and, if the action list is comprehensive, to ensure that all goals are met.

SEA staff can choose small sections of this tool and use it in embedded staff development activities that focus on the implementation of specific strategies and activities.

SEA staff can also use the development of this type of tool as a process for ensuring that all staff involved have mutual understanding of the SEA’s goals for parental involvement and how those goals are to be actualized.

Tool 3.6: Template for LEA School Improvement

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool contains samples from a template that SEAs can provide to LEAs to support their development of an improvement plan that includes processes and procedures to support parental involvement as defined in Title I, Part A. When SEAs create these types of templates, they should also ensure that other tools, such as checklists and monitoring instruments, are aligned to them.

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs as well as through SEA Web sites. SEA staff can create additional briefs or articles in Title I newsletters to further encourage use of the template.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff in understanding and developing plans that address the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

SEA staff can make the use of a template such as this one mandatory for improvement planning when LEAs have failed to reach the state's goals for parental involvement practice as defined by Title I, Part A.

SEA staff can use this type of tool for on-site, step-by-step interventions for LEAs that are designated as needing improvement (not meeting AYP).

LEA Plan for Excellence (Sampling of Template, Not Exhaustive)

Directions for using this template are in [brackets]. Staff, creating a plan, should use the headers provided in this template and incorporate the information described in the directions for each section. Add documentation and additional information to support your plan in appendices at the back.

A. TITLE I, PART A THEMES IN THE BRIDGE TO EXCELLENCE PLAN

[Briefly describe the LEA's approach and strategies to provide high-quality support to all Title I, Part A schools at each level of the school system: elementary, middle, and high school.]

SCHOOLS IN IMPROVEMENT:

[What steps will the LEA take to involve parents in School Improvement?]

Provide descriptions of the methods or approaches the LEA will use to address the following items; use the same numbers and letters listed below to organize responses under each item.]

1. Notification: Student Attending School identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action or Restructuring. [Title I, Part A, Section 1116(b)(6)(A-E)]

[How will the LEA address parent notification provisions?]

In compliance with Title I, Part A, Section 1118, parents of each student enrolled in a Title I, Part A school identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring will be notified in September 2007 by letter from the superintendent. Parent notification is coordinated through the Division of Accountability and Department of School Improvement. Letters should be prepared in English, Spanish, and other languages as requested. Parent letters are sent home with students, posted on the school's Web site, and made available for parent/community meetings.

For each of the lettered topics below, describe the step-by-step process, including specific timeline/dates and contents of the letter (complete sample notification documents and notification letter should be included in the appendix), each school will use to inform each student enrolled in a Title I, Part A school identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring.]

a) Identification

[What does identification mean to the school, students, and parents?

Each school in School Improvement will receive a school-specific letter from the SEA explaining what caused the school to be identified and its current status in School Improvement, as well as what the identification means for the school. This information must be included in the notification to parents.

Why has this school been identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring? Each school's letter will identify the targets the school missed in the reported areas and the subgroups that made Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP), as well as those that did not make AYP in the reported areas. This information must be included in the notification to parents.

How will the LEA ensure that each parent receives this information?]

b) Approach to addressing low achievement

[What is the school doing to address low achievement?

Information to parents must explain that the goals and objectives for schools are delineated in the LEA's Master Plan. These goals and objectives drive the academic programs and activities for all schools. Additionally, the plans must describe how targeted professional development will promote standards-based curriculum.

Furthermore, parents must be informed of how the LEA and the SEA will work collaboratively to ensure that schools identified for School Improvement receive technical assistance, extra resources for instructional materials, staffing, and ongoing, job-embedded professional development.

How does the LEA plan to accomplish these tasks and notify parents about the procedures and process for doing so?]

2. Parental involvement in the schools identified for School Improvement, Title I, Part A, Section 1118(d)

[How are parents to be involved in addressing the academic issues that caused the school to be identified for School Improvement?

Parents must be involved in the school improvement process. Parents should serve on school planning and management teams. LEAs should keep in mind that the Department of School Improvement and Accountability (DSIA) and the Title I Department work with schools to increase parental involvement by providing direction and guidance to schools in this area. LEA staff and parents may attend workshops sponsored by the DSIA and/or the Title I Department. The Title I Parent and Family Involvement Coordinators also train school staffs and parent teams in the development of accountability portfolios and appropriate documentation to capture parental involvement in schools.

How does the LEA plan to involve parents in supporting efforts to address academic needs?]

B. PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT POLICY

[How does the LEA use policy to support parental involvement?]

Briefly describe the LEA's approach and strategies to encourage parental involvement in the development of parental involvement policy. School systems and schools need to communicate frequently, clearly, and meaningfully with families, and ask for parents' input in decisions that affect their child. [Section 1118(a)(2)] Parental involvement strategies should be woven throughout each school system's Master Plan.]

LOCAL SCHOOL SYSTEM POLICY:

[How will the LEA involve parents in developing parental involvement policy?]

Provide descriptions of the methods or approaches the LEA will use to address the following items; use the same numbers and letters listed below to organize responses under each item.]

1. The local school system policy shall include the following:

[How does the LEA's parental involvement policy reflect the provisions of Title I, Part A, Section 1118? In compliance with Title I, Part A, Section 1118, LEAs and schools must develop policy to support the involvement of parents of students enrolled in a Title I, Part A schools.]

For each of the lettered topics below, describe the step-by-step process including specific timeline/dates and contents of the letters, forms, documents, or other media (complete samples should be included in the appendix) the LEA and its schools will use to inform parents about involvement opportunities and the LEAs and school's approach to parental involvement.]

a) Joint development of program activities and the process of school review and improvement

[What strategies and activities will the LEA use to engage parents in the joint development of program activities [Title I, Part A, Section 1112] and the process of school review and improvement [Title I, Part A, Section 1116]?]

Describe the processes and procedures the LEA and its schools will use to involve parents in joint development of program and activities and the process for review and improvement. List the types of activities, with an explanation for each. Provide a timeline.

Fully describe in detail the strategies and actions the LEA will use to implement the following:

- i. Annual parent orientation meeting to provide information to parents on the following topics and others appropriate: their rights as parents of students served through Title I, Part A; the schools strategies to ensure that each child is academically successful; and the role of parents in supporting their child's education.*

- ii. Collaboration with other school system departments to share information on Title I, Part A, Section 1118 (such as community forums, meetings, and information fairs).
- iii. Jointly developed School–Parent Compacts that describe what teachers, other staff, students, and parents will need to do to ensure that all students meet state standards.

LEAs should also remember that the Title I Department and the Department of School Improvement and Accountability oversee the systemic process that requires the inclusion of parents in the process of school review and improvement as members of School Improvement Teams and/or School Planning and Management Teams. The Title I Parent/Family Involvement Coordinators will assist School Planning and Management Teams in developing, putting into action, and assessing the parental involvement component of the School Improvement Plan and provide strategies on how to include parents in the process.]

b) Building capacity for strong parental involvement

[What strategies and activities will the LEA use to build the capacity of school staff and parents for strong parental involvement?

Describe the processes and procedures the LEA and its schools will use to build the capacity of staff and parents. List the types of activities with an explanation for each. Provide a timeline.

LEAs should also remember the Title I Parent/Family Involvement Coordinators work with schools and parent groups to build capacity for focused parental involvement through the development of effective PTAs/PTSAs and parent teams in Title I, Part A schools. The coordinators collaborate with PTAs/PTSAs, as well as with Parent Advisory Councils to develop and implement strategies to achieve greater parent/family/community involvement and participation. Title I, Part A staff also provide workshops to school and parent groups and/or facilitate the attendance of school teams at systemic training sessions that provide innovative strategies to promote working partnerships among parents, teachers, students, and the community.

Parents and Title I, Part A staff jointly participate in family involvement conferences. The conferences provide innovative strategies that promote working partnerships among parents, teachers, students, and the community.]

LEA Responsibilities

4 LEA Responsibilities

LEAs also have a key role in promoting and increasing parental involvement. An LEA may receive funds under Title I, Part A only if the LEA implements programs, activities, and procedures for the involvement of parents in Title I, Part A programs that are consistent with the requirements. LEAs must plan and implement these programs, activities, and procedures with meaningful consultation with parents of children participating in Title I, Part A programs.

[Section 1118(a), ESEA]

Policy

Each LEA that receives Title I, Part A funds must develop a written parental involvement policy that establishes the LEA's expectations for parental involvement. The policy must be developed jointly with, and agreed upon with, the parents of children participating in Title I, Part A programs and distributed to parents of all children participating in Title I, Part A programs.

[Section 1118(a)(2), ESEA]

If the LEA already has a district-level parental involvement policy that applies to all parents, the LEA may amend that existing policy, if necessary, to meet the requirements of Title I, Part A. [Section 1118(b)(3), ESEA]

An LEA's written parental involvement policy must establish the LEA's expectations for parental involvement, and describe how the LEA will—

- ❖ involve parents in jointly developing the LEA's local plan under Section 1112 and in the process of school review and improvement under Section 1116;
- ❖ provide the coordination, technical assistance, and other support necessary to assist Title I, Part A schools in planning and implementing effective parental involvement activities to improve student academic achievement and school performance;
- ❖ build the schools' and parents' capacity for strong parental involvement;
- ❖ coordinate and integrate parental involvement strategies under Title I, Part A with parental involvement strategies under other programs, such as Head Start, Reading First, Early Reading First, Even Start, Parents as Teachers, Home Instruction Program for Preschool Youngsters (HIPPY), state-run preschool programs, and Title III language instructional programs;
- ❖ conduct, with the involvement of parents, an annual evaluation of the content and effectiveness of the parental involvement policy in improving the academic quality of the schools served with Title I, Part A funds, including

- identifying barriers to greater participation by parents in parental involvement activities, with particular attention to parents who are economically disadvantaged, are disabled, have limited English proficiency, have limited literacy, or are of any racial or ethnic minority background;
 - using the findings of the evaluation to design strategies for more effective parental involvement; and
 - revising, if necessary, the LEA's parental involvement policies; and
- ❖ Involve parents in the activities of schools served under Title I, Part A. [Section 1118(a)(2), ESEA]

Policy and Local Plans

An LEA must incorporate its written parental involvement policy (developed in accordance with Title I, Part A) into its local plan (developed under Section 1112 of the ESEA), which is submitted to its SEA. [Section 1118(a)(2), ESEA] If the LEA's plan is not satisfactory to the parents of participating children, the LEA must submit any parent comments, along with the LEA's plan, to the SEA. [Section 1118(b)(4), ESEA]

Local Plans

An LEA must describe in its local plan (developed under Section 1112 of the ESEA) how the LEA will coordinate its Title I, Part A program with programs under Title II of the ESEA to provide professional development to teachers and principals and, if appropriate, to parents and other staff. [Section 1112(b)(1)(D), ESEA]

Notification

Section 1118 defines the types of information LEAs must share with parents. However, users of this document should also note that numerous provisions regarding parental notification are contained in other sections of ESEA and IDEA. This document does not address LEA notification to parents unless the provisions are noted within Section 1118.

Professional Qualifications: At the beginning of each school year, LEAs must inform parents of each student attending a Title I, Part A school of their right to request information about the professional qualifications of both the teachers and the paraprofessionals who teach and work with their child in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request, and, "to the extent practicable," in a language that parents understand. [For more information on "to the extent practicable," see Section 2, page 8. Additional guidance is also available in Title I Paraprofessionals Non-Regulatory Guidance at http://www.ed.gov/policy/elsec/guid/pa_raguidance.pdf. [Section 1111(h)(6) and (c), ESEA, Sections 200.61 (a)(1) and (2) of the Title I Regulations]

LEA Report Card: Similar to state report cards, LEA report cards must include information related to the data elements

(assessment, accountability, and teacher quality) as it applies to the LEA as a whole and as it applies to each school served by the LEA. Individual school report cards are not required, but information about each school must be included in the LEA report card. Example charts with all the required assessment data elements at the LEA and school level are provided in the LEA report cards, Title I, Part A, Non-Regulatory Guidance, available at <http://www.ed.gov/programs/titleiparta/reportcardsguidance.doc>.

The information in the report cards must be in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request, and, “to the extent practicable,” in a language that parents understand. [Section 1111(h)(2) and (E), ESEA] (For more information on “to the extent practicable,” see Section 2, page 8 of this toolkit.)

LEA Outreach to Parents of English

Language Learners: LEAs receiving Title I, Part A funds must implement effective means of outreach to parents of limited English proficient students to inform those parents of how they

- ❖ can be involved in the education of their child and
- ❖ be active participants in assisting their child to attain English proficiency, achieve at high levels in core academic subjects, and meet the challenging state academic achievement standards and state academic content standards expected of all students.

LEAs’ outreach to parents of limited English proficient students must include sending notice of opportunities for, and holding, regular meetings for the purpose of formulating and responding to recommendations from parents of Title I, Part A students. [Section 1112(g)(4), ESEA]

LEAs using Title I, Part A funds to provide a language instruction educational program (as defined in Part C of Title III of the ESEA) must provide the following information to a parent or parents of limited English proficient children identified for participation or participating in such a program:

- ❖ the reasons for the identification of their child as limited English proficient and in need of placement in a language instruction educational program;
- ❖ the child’s level of English proficiency, how that level was assessed, and the status of the child’s academic achievement;
- ❖ methods of instruction used in the program in which their child is or will be participating, and the methods of instruction used in other available programs, including how those programs differ in content, instructional goals, and the use of English and a native language in instruction;
- ❖ how the program in which their child is or will be participating will meet the educational strengths and needs of their child;
- ❖ how the program will specifically help their child learn English and meet age-appropriate academic achievement standards for grade promotion and graduation;
- ❖ specific exit requirements of the program, including the expected rate of transition from the program into classrooms that are not tailored for limited English proficient children, and the expected rate of graduation from secondary school for the program if Title I, Part A funds are used for children in secondary schools;

- ❖ in the case of a child with a disability, how the program meets the objectives of the child’s individualized education program (IEP) under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) or the child’s individualized services under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; [Rehabilitation Act, Section 504] and
- ❖ information pertaining to parental rights, including written guidance on each of the following:
 1. detailing the option that parents have a right to decline enrollment in a language instructional program and to choose another program or method of instruction if available,
 2. detailing the right that parents have to remove their child immediately from the program upon the parents’ request, and
 3. assisting parents in selecting among various programs and methods of instruction, if more than one program or method is offered by the eligible entity.

These notice requirements also apply to a language instruction educational program funded under Part A of Title III. [Section 3303, ESEA] Additionally, the notice and information provided must be in an understandable and uniform format and, to the extent practicable, provided in a language that the parents can understand. [Section 1112(g)(2), ESEA]

LEAs must provide the above information to parents not later than 30 days after the beginning of the school year for those children identified before the beginning of the school year as limited English proficient. For children identified after the beginning of the school year as limited English proficient, LEAs must provide the above information to parents within the first 2 weeks of the child being placed in a language instruction educational program.

In addition, if a language instruction educational program has not made progress on the annual measurable achievement objectives under Section 3122 of the ESEA, the eligible entity using the Title I, Part A funds must provide separate notification to parents of a child identified for participation in, or participating in, that program to inform them of that failure not later than 30 days after the failure occurs. [Section 1112(g)(1), (2), and (3), ESEA]

LEA Information to Parents of Children with Disabilities: In the case of a child with a disability who is in a language instruction educational program, parents must be notified, not later than 30 days after the beginning of the school year, of how the language instruction educational program meets the objectives of the child’s IEP under the IDEA or the child’s individualized services under Section 504. [Section 1112(g)(1)(A)(i), ESEA]

Funding

LEA Reserve for Parental Involvement

Provisions: An LEA that receives a Title I, Part A allocation of greater than $500,000 must reserve not less than 1% of its Title I, Part A allocation to carry out the provisions for parental involvement, including promoting family literacy and parenting skills. The percentage reserved for parental involvement must be calculated on the basis of the LEA's total Title I, Part A for parental involvement allocation. [Section 1118(a)(3)(A), ESEA]

Allocation of Funds to Schools: An LEA with an allocation in excess of $500,000 first must determine the percentage of its Title I allocation that it wishes to reserve for parental involvement activities under Section 1118. That percentage must be at least 1% of the LEA's Title I allocation, and may be more. The LEA then must set aside an amount for parental involvement of parents of private school children, based on the proportion of private school children from low-income families residing in Title I attendance areas. The LEA then must distribute to its public schools at least 95% of the remainder, leaving the balance of the reserved funds for parental involvement activities at the LEA level. [Section 1118(a)(3)(C), ESEA]

Allocations of Funds to Schools with

Funds Under $500,000: LEAs with a Title I, Part A, Section 1118 allocation of $500,000 or less must carry out the provisions of Section 1118, but are not required to reserve any specific amount from their Title I, Part A allocation to do so. [Section 1118(a)(3), ESEA]

Equitable Services for Private Schools:

An LEA must reserve funds for parental involvement activities for parents of private school children who participate in Title I, Part A activities from the amount the LEA has reserved for parental involvement. These funds must be reserved by the LEA before any allocation of funds to its respective school attendance areas and schools. The amount of funds reserved for these activities must be proportionate to the number of private school children from low-income families residing in participating public school attendance areas. [Sections 200.65 and 200.77 of the Title I Regulations] For more information on this issues, see the U.S. Department of Education's Ensuring Equitable Services to Private School Children, available at <http://www.ed.gov/programs/titleiparta/ps/titleitoolkit.pdf>.

Allocation of Funds with Regard to Student Population: In distributing the amount of funds the LEA reserves for schools to carry out the parental involvement provisions for parental involvement, an LEA may use the same formula it uses to determine the per-pupil allocations for those schools, or it may distribute those funds in another manner. An LEA may use any one of or a combination of factors; for example, it may choose to allocate funds to schools in School Improvement status; base its allocation on the results of the LEA's annual evaluation of parental involvement activities; or make use of the SEA's annual AYP review of how its LEAs are carrying out their responsibilities for activities under Section 1118.

Allocation of Funds for LEA Use: The LEA may retain for district-wide parental involvement activities the full amount of any Title I, Part A funds reserved for that purpose in excess of the required 1%. However, the requirement to allocate an equitable amount for the involvement of private school parents (as described in C–15) applies to the entire amount set-aside. [Section 1118(a)(3)(C), ESEA]

Involvement of Parents in Allocation of Funds: The LEA must involve parents of Title I, Part A participating children in decisions about how it allots to schools the funds the LEA has reserved for parental involvement activities. The involvement of parents should be done in a manner consistent with the definition of parental involvement provided in Section 2. In terms of process and representation, an LEA may choose to use its district-wide parent advisory council (if it has chosen to establish one) to provide advice on this and other matters relating to Title I, Part A parental involvement programs. [Section 1118(a)(3)(B) and 1118(e)(12), ESEA]

School Improvement

Publishing and Disseminating Annual School Progress Reviews: An LEA must publicize and disseminate the results of its local annual review of each school (i.e., the review used to determine whether the school is making AYP) to parents, teachers, principals, schools, and the community so that they can continually refine the instructional program, in an instructionally useful manner, to help all children in Title I, Part A programs meet the challenging state student academic achievement standards.

In addition, an LEA must review and publicize the effectiveness of the actions and activities its schools are carrying out in Title I, Part A programs with respect to parental involvement, professional development, and other activities assisted under Title I, Part A. [Section 1116(a)(1)(D), ESEA]

Communication—Schools in School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring:

If an LEA identifies a school for School Improvement, for Corrective Action, or for Restructuring, the LEA must, promptly following identification, provide a notice to a parent or parents of each student enrolled in the school, in a manner consistent with notification requirements listed previously that

- ❖ explains what the identification means and how the school compares academically to other schools served by the LEA and the SEA involved;
- ❖ identifies the reasons for the identification;
- ❖ provides an explanation of how the parents can become involved in addressing the academic issues that caused the school to be identified for School Improvement; and
- ❖ explains the parent option to transfer their child to another public school, with transportation provided by the LEA, or to obtain Supplemental Educational Services for the child. [Section 1116(b)(6), ESEA]

The notification must provide parents with enough relevant information to help them decide what is best for their child. Because an LEA must provide choice to students in eligible schools not later than the first day of the school year, notice to parents should occur well before that date.

The LEA

- ❖ must inform parents about the academic achievement of students at the school or schools to which their child may transfer;
- ❖ may choose to include a description of the special academic programs, facilities, and before- or after-school programs available at those schools;
- ❖ may include the professional qualifications of teachers in the core academic subjects, and
- ❖ may identify parental involvement opportunities. [Section 200.37(b), Title I Regulations]

In addition to providing school improvement information to the parents of each student in the school, an LEA must publish and disseminate, to both parents and the public, information explaining

- ❖ what the school is doing to address the problem of low achievement;
- ❖ what the LEA or the SEA is doing to help the school address the problem; and
- ❖ if applicable, a description of specific Corrective Action or Restructuring Plans. [Section 1116(b)(6), ESEA, and Section 200.38, Title I Regulations]

LEA Approval of School Improvement

Plans: An LEA must approve the plan, which the school must develop or revise after the school has been identified for School Improvement. The school plan must be developed or revised in consultation with parents; school staff, along with the LEA serving the school; and outside experts not later than 3 months after the school is identified and must cover a 2-year period. [Section 1116(b)(3), ESEA]

School Choice: An LEA must provide an explanation of the choice option to all parents of students enrolled in Title I schools that have been identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring. This notification must be in a comprehensive, easy-to-understand format and, to the extent practicable, in a language the parents can understand. (See Section 2, page 8 of this toolkit for an explanation of “to the extent practicable.”)

In the case of a school identified for School Improvement, the school district will notify parents, not later than the first day of the school year following identification, with an explanation of the choice option. At a minimum, this notification must

- ❖ inform parents that their child is eligible to attend another public school due to the identification of the current school as in need of School Improvement;
- ❖ identify each public school, which may include charter schools, that the parent can select; and
- ❖ include information on the academic achievement of the schools that the parents may select. [34 C.F.R. 200.37(b)(4); Section 1116(b)(1)(E), ESEA]

Priority must be given to the lowest-achieving children from low-income families in providing students the option to transfer to another public school. [Section 1116(b)(1)(E)(ii), ESEA]

Corrective Action: Corrective Action is a significant intervention in a school that is designed to remedy the school’s persistent inability to make adequate progress toward all students becoming proficient in reading, mathematics, or science. A school is placed in Corrective Action when it has not achieved its annual progress targets for four years. If a school is identified for Corrective Action, the LEA must promptly notify the parents of each child enrolled in the school. The notification must explain the following:

- ❖ what the identification means, and how academic achievement levels at this school compare to those at other schools in the LEA and in the SEA;
- ❖ why the school was identified and how the parents can become involved in addressing the academic issues that led to the identification;
- ❖ the parents’ option to transfer their child to another school in the LEA that has not been identified for School Improvement. The LEA must provide parents with the information that helps them make an informed decision about whether or not to exercise this option. At a minimum, the LEA must tell parents about the academic achievement levels of students at the school or schools to which their child may transfer, but the LEA may choose to include additional information, as well; and
- ❖ how parents of eligible children can obtain Supplemental Educational Services for their child. This notice must include information about the availability of providers and brief descriptions of their services, qualifications, and effectiveness.

Technical Assistance

An LEA is responsible for ensuring that technical assistance is provided during the entire two-year period to each school identified for School Improvement as the school develops and implements its improvement, and that the technical assistance is based on scientifically based research (SBR). The LEA must provide specific technical assistance that includes 1) strategies for analyzing data from the assessments and other examples of student work and 2) processes and strategies to identify and address problems in instruction and barriers, if any, in implementing the parental involvement requirements in Section 1118 and the professional development requirements in Section 1119. [Section 1116(b)(4), ESEA]

Supplemental Educational Services

If a Title I school is identified for School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring, the LEA serving that school must arrange to provide Supplemental Educational Services to eligible children in the school. The provider of Supplemental Educational Services must have a demonstrated record of effectiveness, and be selected by the child’s parent from a list of providers as retained by the SEA in accordance with reasonable criteria that the SEA has adopted. An LEA must do the following:

- ❖ provide, at a minimum, annual notice to parents (in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request, and, to the extent practicable, in a language the parents can understand) of (1) the availability of the Supplemental Educational Services; (2) the identity of the approved providers that are within the LEA or whose services are reasonably available in neighboring LEAs; and (3) a brief description of the services, qualifications, and demonstrated effectiveness of each provider;

- ❖ if requested, assist parents in choosing a provider from the list;
- ❖ apply fair and equitable procedures for selecting students to be served if the number of spaces at approved providers is not sufficient; and
- ❖ not disclose to the public the identity of any student who is eligible for, or receiving, Supplemental Educational Services without the written permission of the parents of the student. [Section 1116(e)(2), ESEA] For additional information see Supplemental Educational Services Non-Regulatory Guidance, available at <http://www.ed.gov/policy/elsec/guid/suppsvcsguid.pdf>.

Schools In Restructuring

If an LEA identifies a school for Restructuring, which means a major reorganization of the school's governance arrangement, the LEA must provide both parents and teachers with—

- ❖ prompt notice;
- ❖ an opportunity to comment before any action under the Restructuring Plan takes place; and
- ❖ an opportunity to participate in the development of any Restructuring

Plans. [Section 1116(b)(8)(C), ESEA; Section 200.43, Title I Regulations]

Tool 4.1: Template for LEA Parental Involvement Policy

This tool is a sample template for LEAs to use in creating a parental involvement policy. While there is no required format for policy documents, this sample demonstrates the types of information that must be included in order to meet the requirements of Title I, Part A, Section 1118(a)(2).

Tool 4.2: Parental Involvement Policy Sample

This tool provides a sample format of an LEA parental involvement policy and targets specific provisions. While there is no required template for policy documents, this sample demonstrates one method for presenting the policy in order to meet the requirements of Title I, Part A, Section 1118(a)(2).

Tool 4.3: Policy Development Checklist

This tool provides an example of a checklist that LEA staff can use to ensure that their policy aligns to Title I, Part A, Section 1118(a)(2). This sample does not incorporate all of the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. However, it does provide insight into how to develop these types of resources.

Tool 4.4: Action Planning—Building Systemic Support for Parental Involvement

This tool demonstrates an example of a question-driven action-planning tool for LEAs to use as they promote parental involvement. This tool emphasizes building the capacity of staff and parents in areas that are often the most challenging: standards/benchmarks, curriculum, instruction, and assessment. While this tool is not exhaustive in addressing every need or issue, it provides a foundation of ideas for staff to consider in promoting parental involvement.

Tool 4.5: Evaluating Effectiveness—Building Systemic Support for Parental Involvement

This tool is a sample from an inventory for LEAs to use as they create effective parental involvement programs. While this sample covers only three possible types of involvement, it demonstrates the utility of these types of resources.

Tool 4.6: Letter—Parents' Right to Know: Qualified Teacher/Paraprofessional

This tool provides a sample letter that demonstrates one LEA's notification process regarding teacher and paraprofessional qualifications. While there is no required template for this type of notification, this sample provides guidance in creating letters for this purpose.

Tool 4.7: Letter—Parents' Right to Know: Unqualified Teacher/Paraprofessional

This tool is a sample letter that demonstrates one LEA's notification process when a child's teacher or classroom paraprofessional is not highly qualified. While there is no required template for this type of notification, this letter provides guidance to those creating such a letter.

Tool 4.8: LEA Procedures—AYP Parental Notification Letter

This tool is a sample of SEA guidance given to LEAs to use in creating notification letters required through Title I, Part A. It provides examples of descriptive and bulleted directions to assist LEAs and schools in meeting the parental involvement provisions of Title I, Part A.

Tool 4.9: Disseminating Annual Local Education Agency Report Card

This tool demonstrates a method for communicating school performance through the LEA report card. There are numerous ways that LEAs can provide this information. This sample is designed to provide the public with a quick snapshot of the information used to determine AYP.

Tool 4.10: ELL Parent Notification Letter

This tool is a sample letter for LEAs to use in developing notification letters. While there is no required format, this sample provides insight into one school's method of sharing information regarding ELL programs.

Tool 4.11: AYP Parent Notification Letter

This tool is a sample letter for LEAs to use in developing notification letters. While there is no required format, this sample provides insight into one school's method of sharing School Choice information.

Tool 4.12: Supplemental Educational Services Parent Notification Letter

This tool is a sample letter for LEAs to use in developing notification letters. While there is no required format, this sample provides insight into one school's method of disseminating Supplemental Educational Services information.

Tool 4.13: Parent Complaint Documentation

This tool is a sample for LEAs to use in creating procedures for parents to submit complaints. There is no required format for parents to submit complaints. LEAs should note that a written form might not be appropriate for all parents.

Description

This tool is a sample template for LEAs to use in creating a parental involvement policy. While there is no required format for policy documents, this sample demonstrates the types of information that must be included in order to meet the requirements of Title I, Part A, Section 1118(a)(2).

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs and included in technical assistance resources as well as posted on SEA Web sites.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff in understanding and developing plans that address the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEAs can use this tool as a resource during the development of parental involvement policy.

Committee members who are helping to develop parental involvement policy can use this type of template to guide their decisions.

PART I. GENERAL EXPECTATIONS

NOTE: Each district in its district-wide parental involvement policy must establish the district's expectations for parental involvement. [Section 1118(a)(2), ESEA] There is no required format for those written expectations; however, this is a sample of what might be included.

The [Name of School District] agrees to implement the following statutory requirements:

- The school district will put into operation programs, activities and procedures for the involvement of parents in all of its schools with Title I, Part A programs, consistent with Section 1118 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA). Those programs, activities, and procedures will be planned and operated with meaningful consultation with parents of participating children.
- Consistent with Section 1118, the school district will work with its schools to ensure that the required school-level parental involvement policies meet the requirements of Section 1118(b) of the ESEA, and each include, as a component, a School-Parent Compact consistent with Section 1118(d) of the ESEA.
- The school district will incorporate this district-wide parental involvement policy into its LEA plan developed under Section 1112 of the ESEA.
- In carrying out the Title I, Part A parental involvement requirements, to the extent practicable, the school district and its schools will provide full opportunities for the participation of parents with limited English proficiency, parents with disabilities, and parents of migratory children and will provide information and school reports required under Section 1111 of the ESEA in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request and, to the extent practicable, in a language parents understand.
- If the LEA plan for Title I, Part A developed under Section 1112 of the ESEA is not satisfactory to the parents of participating children, the school district will submit any parent comments with the plan when the school district submits the plan to the state department of education.

Tool 4.2: Parental Involvement Policy Sample

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool provides a sample format for an LEA's parental involvement policy and targets select provisions. While there is no required template for policy documents, this sample demonstrates one method for presenting policy in order to meet requirements of Title I, Part A, Section 1118(a)(2).

Distribution

Samples such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff in understanding and developing plans that address the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this sample as a model on which to build a policy that fits the context of their schools and community.

Title I, Part A Program—Parental Involvement Policy

Tool 4.4: Action Planning—Building Systemic Support for Parental Involvement

Description

This tool demonstrates an example of a question-driven action-planning tool for LEAs to use as they promote parental involvement. This tool emphasizes building the capacity of staff and parents in areas that are often the most challenging: standards/benchmarks, curriculum, instruction, and assessment. While this tool is not exhaustive in addressing every need or issue, it provides a foundation of ideas for staff to consider in promoting parental involvement.

Distribution

Samples such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs that use this type of document will also want to develop a process for sharing the tools with schools.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff in understanding and developing plans that address the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this type of action planning tool to guide their efforts to increase parental involvement. This type of tool can be used with staff and stakeholder groups. It can be used in the early stages of the action planning to ensure alignment with the Title I, Part A parental involvement provisions as well as periodically throughout the process as a quality check.

Users may also want to add columns to reflect the needs of their LEA.

Tool 4.5: Evaluating Effectiveness—Building Systemic Support for Parental Involvement

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool is a sample inventory for LEAs to use as they create effective parental involvement programs. While this sample covers only three possible types of involvement, it demonstrates the utility of these types of resources.

Distribution

Samples such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs using this tool will also need to create a process for sharing it with schools.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff in building shared understanding and in developing plans that address the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this type of tool to gauge the effectiveness and the scope of their parental involvement efforts. If the inventory reveals that efforts are concentrated at one level of the system or in one focus for involvement, they will know where to direct additional resources and efforts in their future work.

This document includes descriptions of common parental involvement activities. However, not every activity is appropriate for every school or grade level. Users may also want to write in additional activities to reflect other types of involvement.

Any planning committee or any group exploring parental involvement may complete this form. However, parents should be represented in whatever process is used.

Building Systemic Support Inventory Tool

Directions

Highlight the activities in use and check grade levels presently involved in efforts. Users may find they need more information before finalizing the inventory.

To assess how well each activity is implemented, use these letters in the box beside each description:

- W Well implemented with all families
- G Good start, need more
- N Needs improvement

Tool 4.6: Letter—Parents’ Right to Know: Qualified Teacher/Paraprofessional

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool provides a sample letter that demonstrates one LEA’s notification process regarding teacher and paraprofessional qualifications. While there is no required template for this type of notification, this sample provides guidance in creating letters for this purpose.

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs will need to develop a process for sharing these types of samples with schools.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff develop notification letters. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this tool as a resource during training sessions to ensure that all staff are using appropriate notification documents.

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool is a sample letter that demonstrates one LEA's notification process when a child's teacher or classroom paraprofessional is not highly qualified. While there is no required template for this type of notification, this letter provides guidance to those creating such a letter.

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs will need to develop a process for sharing these types of samples with schools.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff develop notification letters. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this tool as a resource during training sessions to ensure that all staff are using appropriate notification documents.

[Date]

Dear Parent or Guardian,

On January 8, 2002, President Bush signed the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 into law. The law brings sweeping changes to public schools throughout the nation. One of these changes requires that any school in receipt of Title I, Part A funds must now inform parents if their child is assigned a teacher for four or more consecutive weeks who is not yet "highly qualified" under the terms and criteria outlined in law.

According to the Title I, Part A provisions, a "highly qualified" teacher is one who

1. Has obtained a bachelor's degree or higher;
2. Has obtained full state certification – in our state this means that the teacher has either a preliminary, initial, or professional teaching license; and
3. Has demonstrated competency in the core academic subject area(s) that he/she teaches.

Please know that all teachers who teach the core academic subjects had until June 30, 2006 to meet all three standards. This transition was deliberately written into the law to acknowledge that many states have certification and licensure requirements that differ from the new federal standards for teacher quality. This is true of our state. Although our state has some of the most demanding certification requirements in the country, these requirements do not automatically mean that every teacher meets the highly qualified standard, even if the teacher has been teaching for years and has been performing at high levels.

As of this writing, your child's teacher [Mr./Ms._____] has met the [bachelor's degree requirement/state certification requirement/subject matter competency requirement], but has yet to complete the [bachelor's degree requirement/state certification requirement/subject matter competency requirement]. He/she is, however, currently working to meet the new requirement and we have full confidence in [his/her] ability to teach effectively in this assignment between now and [date].

If you have any questions regarding the qualifications of [teacher's name], please feel free to contact me. For additional information about the federal highly qualified teacher requirements and the state's policies related to them, please visit the department of education's Web site.

Sincerely,

Tool 4.8: LEA Procedures—AYP Parental Notification Letter

Description

This tool is a sample of SEA guidance given to LEAs to use in creating notification letters required through Title I, Part A. It provides examples of descriptive and bulleted directions to assist LEAs and schools in meeting the parental involvement provisions of Title I, Part A.

Distribution

Information such as this is commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs will need to develop a procedure for sharing this information with schools.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff in understanding and developing notification procedures. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this guidance with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this tool as a resource in helping schools prepare letters for parents.

Dissemination Requirements

Within the Title I, Part A provisions, all districts and schools are required to send correspondence to the parents of each child enrolled in the district and/or school regarding its AYP status. The notice to parents should be written in an understandable format and, when applicable, in a language that parents can understand. This notice must be sent to parents along with a copy of the Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) Report and should take place as soon as possible after the AYP reports are officially released.

Information That Should Be Included in the AYP Dissemination

It is imperative that correspondence be included with the AYP reports to explain them to parents. Your correspondence should

- Inform parents that the state assessment measures student performance in terms of the percentage of students who are at or above state-defined academic standards in reading and mathematics as measured by the state assessment and reports the results on a school, district, and state level.
- Highlight the various components of the report, including the achievement results in reading and math, the participation rule, the subgroups, and the secondary indicator.
- Inform parents of your school and district AYP status.
- Share with parents what your school is doing to maintain AYP status.
- Highlight what the AYP reports mean to parents, which includes reminding parents that they are an important influence in helping their child achieve high academic standards and they are encouraged to be actively involved in their child's education.
- Address any unique issues on your AYP report, such as an "(i)" because there was insufficient data to determine AYP due to a small number of students, or that the report was based on Title I, Part A students only and states at the top, "Title I targeted rule applied."

Supplemental Educational Services (SES):
Instructions for Parent Notification Letter

Statute requires that an LEA is required to arrange for the provision of Supplemental Educational Services (SES) for students from low-income families. The LEA must notify parents about their available choices prior to [provide appropriate date]. Parents of these students should be provided the opportunity to choose a provider from the list of approved providers that is developed and maintained by the state.

Parents have the option to select the SES provider of their choice, and the LEA may not restrict or limit the state’s list of providers from which the parents may choose.

Statute requires that the LEA must promptly provide notice—in an understandable and uniform format and, to the extent practicable, in a language the parents can understand—to a parent or parents of each student enrolled in a campus identified for School Improvement. Notice must include the following information:

- the availability of services under this subsection;
- the identity of approved providers of those services that are within the local educational agency or whose services are reasonably available in neighboring local educational agencies;
- a brief description of the services;
- the qualifications of each provider, and
- the demonstrated effectiveness of each such provider.

School Choice: Instructions for Parent Notification Letter for Campuses That Are Able to Offer

Statute requires that an LEA must make choice available for students not later than the uniform school start date of the school year following the school year in which the LEA administered the assessments that resulted in the campus being identified as in need of School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring. [Section 1116(b)(1)(E)] The LEA must notify parents about their available choices prior to [provide appropriate date].

Ensure that you provide the parents the name(s) of the campuses that their child can transfer to in the letter.

Be specific when providing the contact information for parents to call in your district to get additional information regarding School Choice. Include information regarding the timeline that the parents must follow in order to participate in the Choice program.

Statute requires that the LEA must promptly provide notice—in an understandable and uniform format and, to the extent practicable, in a language the parents can understand—to a parent or parents of each student enrolled in a campus identified for School Improvement. Notice must provide the following information:

- an explanation of what the status means;
- how the campus compares in terms of academic achievement to other elementary campuses or secondary campuses served by the LEA and the state;
- the reasons for the status;
- an explanation of what the campus is doing to address the problem of low achievement;
- an explanation of what the LEA is doing to help the campus address the achievement problem;
- an explanation of how the parents can become involved in addressing the academic issues that caused the campus to be identified for School Improvement; and
- an explanation of the parents' option to transfer their child to another public school, and if Stage 2 or above, the option for eligible students to receive Supplemental Educational Services (SES). Note that this preliminary notice for SES must be followed up with detailed information to parents of eligible students.

School Choice: Instructions for Parent Notification Letter for Campuses That Are Unable to Offer School Choice

Statute requires that an LEA must make choice available for students not later than the uniform school start date of the school year following the school year in which the LEA administered the assessments that resulted in the campus being identified as in need of School Improvement, Corrective Action, or Restructuring. [Section 1116(b)(1)(E)] The LEA must notify parents about their available choices prior to [provide appropriate date]. If the LEA is unable to offer School Choice because there are not any other campuses available for school choice or because the LEA is a charter school it must still notify parents of the School Choice provision and the reason why the LEA is not able to offer School Choice.

If you are unable to offer another campus then inform the parents of what types of supplemental educational activities will be implemented to address the needs of the students in assisting them to meet State standards.

Statute requires that the LEA must promptly provide notice—in an understandable and uniform format and, to the extent practicable, in a language the parents can understand—to a parent or parents of each student enrolled in a campus identified for School Improvement. This notice must include the following information:

- an explanation of what the status means;
- how the campus compares in terms of academic achievement to other elementary campuses or secondary campuses served by the LEA and the state;
- the reasons for the status;
- an explanation of what the campus is doing to address the problem of low achievement;
- an explanation of what the LEA is doing to help the campus address the achievement problem;
- an explanation of how the parents can become involved in addressing the academic issues that caused the campus to be identified for School Improvement; and
- an explanation of the parents' option to transfer their child to another public school and, if Stage 2 or above, the option for eligible students to receive Supplemental Educational Services (SES). Note that this preliminary notice for SES must be followed up with detailed information to parents of eligible students.

Tool 4.9: Disseminating Annual Local Education Agency Report Card

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs will need to develop a method for sharing these reports with staff and parents.

This format is ideal for a Web-based dissemination database.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff develop effective strategies for parental notification requirements. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEAs can use this information in presentations or informational brochures. LEAs may also want to create a link from their Web site to a Web site housing this information in order to ensure the information is up-to-date.

Letter to Parents: ELL Notification

[Inside Address]

[Date]

Dear Parent or Guardian,

Your student has been placed in the English Language Learner (ELL) program because [he or she] has [use appropriate items from this list:

- Tested below proficient in English language (based on the state language assessment);
- Tested below grade level in content skills; or
- Worked below grade level on class work without accommodations and/or assistance.]

The County School District ELL staff works to bring all students to grade level in English reading, writing, speaking, and listening through instructional strategies that best meet the needs of ELL students. These strategies come from a research-based framework called “Sheltered Instruction.” Sheltered Instruction allows students to learn content and language at the same time using English to deliver carefully planned lessons. Focusing on both content and language allows students to work toward grade-level academic standards while gaining English proficiency. This is the County School District’s model of instruction for English Language Learners.

In our school, English Language Learner services are designed to promote extra help for the student while in the classroom and/or in small group instruction outside the regular classroom. The goal of our project is to assist students in the development of their basic skills so they can become successful learners. Students are exited from the program when they reach language and academic proficiency. The time it takes to reach full proficiency depends on multiple factors and varies for each child.

Because sheltered instruction accelerates students' learning, students typically graduate on time with their peers.

It is important that you notify me as soon as possible if you do not wish your child to participate in this program. If you have any questions, please call me at _____.

Sincerely,

[Name of Person]

Letter to Parents: AYP Notification

[Inside Address]

Dear Parent or Guardian,

I am writing to let you know that [Name of School] Elementary School did not make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) in English/Language Arts overall and did not make AYP for African American students, Hispanic students, and Free/Reduced Lunch students. Nor did we make AYP in math overall and did not make AYP for Hispanic and Free/Reduced Lunch students based on fall 2006 state assessment test results. The school did not meet the overall target in English language arts by 10 percent and in mathematics by 12 percent. Moreover, the school did not meet the participation goals for special education students. The school did meet attendance targets.

The chart below shows how the school’s performance compares to the rest of our district and to the state averages.

	School	District	State
English Language Arts	47.9%	57.4%	71.4%
Math	50%	60.5%	73.7%

You can also go to the state department of education’s Web site and look up information on any school by searching the school’s name.

AYP determinations are based on student performance and participation rates for Statewide Testing for Educational Progress, attendance rates for elementary and middle schools and graduation rates for high schools. At the end of each year, a school is given a report on the school’s performance. Our school did not meet the targeted goals for the 2004–2005 school year. At the end of this school year (2005–2006), our school again did not meet its targets for AYP. We have received notice that the state department of education has designated our school as in “School Improvement.”

This means several things for our school. First, because the school has not made AYP for three years, it has been identified for School Improvement by the state department of education. This also means that all parents with children enrolled in our school can send their child to another school in the district that has not been identified for School Improvement for the 2007–2008 school year. Transportation costs will be covered by the school district for as long as [Name of School] remains in School Improvement. [Name of School] must make AYP for two consecutive years to no longer be in School Improvement.

If there are not enough funds to provide transportation to each student who requests a transfer, we must give priority to the lowest-achieving students from low-income families. However, all students would still have the option to transfer to another school and provide their own transportation. Here are the choices of schools for your child:

School Options	Grades Served	Location	Fall 2006 State Assessment Data Includes Grades 3–6
School 1	K–5	36 Oli Dr.	This school opened in the 2006–2007 year. There is no previous AYP data for this school. For the 2007, year its students met AYP.
School 2	K–5	31 Pace St.	For the 2005–2006 school year, all students, and subgroups of students, met the AYP targets. For the 2006–07 school year, all students and subgroups met the AYP targets and were rated exceptional in Grades 3 and 4 in mathematics achievement.

If you would like to have your child transferred to one of the choice schools, please fill out the enclosed form and return it to the Title 1 Office at [Address of Office] no later than [time and date]. A transfer cannot be considered if the district Title 1 office does not receive your form by this time.

You will be notified by mail and your child will be allowed to attend the choice school until he or she completes the 5th grade.

Students at [Name of School] who are eligible for free or reduced-price lunch and choose not to transfer from the school are also able to enroll in a free tutoring program, known as Supplemental Educational Services. Tutoring programs may be offered before or after the regular school day, on weekends, or in the summer.

The purpose of this assistance is to ensure that students increase their academic achievement in reading and math by receiving additional tutoring and instruction. If there is not enough funding for every child requesting services, eligible students with the greatest academic need will receive first priority. Parents of students on free and reduced lunch will receive more information about this opportunity in [date].

How Our School Will Be Improving

Tool 4.13: Parent Complaint Documentation

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool is a sample for LEAs to use in creating procedures for parents to submit complaints. There is no required format for parents to submit complaints. LEAs should note that a written form might not be appropriate for all parents.

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. LEAs will need to determine a method for sharing this tool with schools.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help LEA staff develop these types of procedures. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this template with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

LEA staff can use this tool as a resource to help schools create complaint procedures. LEA staff should provide training to those using this resource on how to disseminate the complaint form and how staff are to process the form. This would include strategies to welcome parents to use the form and treat each comment with respect.

The county public schools are committed to open communication between school staff and parents at the county's Title I, Part A schools in order to reach the goal of educating all students.

We are aware that disagreements may arise periodically. These disagreements need to be resolved in a timely fashion. The following procedures have been developed to handle complaints dealing with Title I, Part A programs, services, and staff members. All Title I, Part A complaints are to be directed to the director of elementary education as described below.

Filing a Complaint (person with complaint does the following)

1. Gather all information related to the complaint.
2. Fill out the complaint form. Remember, being as specific as possible will help us to resolve the issue.
3. Send the complaint form to the elementary office at the address listed on the form.

Response to Complaint (central office staff does the following)

4. Investigate and prepare a response to the complaint.
5. Ask the director of elementary education to review the complaint form and the prepared response.
6. Set an appointment with the originators of the complaint in order to resolve the complaint. The director of elementary education usually arranges this meeting within five (5) working days after receipt of the complaint.

Additional Steps (if required)

7. If the complaint cannot be resolved by the director of elementary education, a meeting will be set up with the assistant superintendent for instruction, the director of elementary education, and the concerned parties.
8. The assistant superintendent for instruction will work with the director of elementary education to resolve the complaint.
9. If the issue is still unresolved, the director of elementary education will contact the state department of education's Title I, Part A office for guidance.
10. Meetings with officials from the district may be scheduled in order to resolve the complaint.

- 11. If additional steps beyond the state department of education are required in the resolution of the complaint, these steps will occur in accordance with the federal No Child Left Behind legislation.

5 School Responsibilities

5 School Responsibilities

Title I Part A provisions also require school staff to support the parental involvement requirements of Title I, Part A, Section 1118. These efforts include, but are not limited to, planning, shared responsibility, communication, and notification.

School Level Policy

Joint Development of Policy: Each school must develop, jointly with parents of children participating in Title I, Part A services, a written school parental involvement policy that describes how the school will carry out the parental involvement requirements in Section 1118(c)–(f), including the development of a School–Parent Compact. If the school already has a parental involvement policy that applies to all parents, the school may amend that existing policy, if necessary, to meet the requirements of Section 1118(b). Schools must update these policies periodically to meet the changing needs of parents and the school. [Section 1118(b), ESEA]

Notification and Dissemination: Each school served under Title I, Part A must notify parents of its written parental involvement policy in an understandable and uniform format, including alternative formats upon request and, to the extent practicable, provide notice and the policy in a language the parents can understand. In addition, each school must make its written parental involvement policy available to the local community. (See Section 2, page 8 of this toolkit for further information on “to the extent practicable.”) [Section 1118(b)(1), ESEA]

Parents’ Right to Know

Title I, Part A, Section 1118 schools must give each parent timely notice when his or her child has been assigned to, or has been taught for four or more consecutive weeks by a teacher who is not highly qualified. [Section 1111(h)(6)(B)(ii), ESEA] The term “highly qualified” for this purpose is defined in Section 200.56 of the Title I regulations (34 C.F.R Section 200.56) [67 Fed. Reg. 71730, December 2, 2002], available at <http://www.ed.gov/legislation/FedRegister/finrule/2002-4/120202a.html>.

Parental Involvement in Schoolwide Programs

The purpose of a schoolwide program is to improve academic achievement throughout a high–poverty school (one in which at least 40% of the students are from low–income families) so that all students, but particularly the lowest–achieving students, demonstrate proficiency related to the state’s academic standards. [Section 200.25(a), Title I Regulations]

Parental involvement is very important in a schoolwide program. In fact, one of the components of a schoolwide program requires the school to employ strategies to increase parental involvement. [Section 1114(b)(1)(F), ESEA]

Consistent with the purpose stated above, all parents in a schoolwide program school are eligible to participate in parental involvement activities. However, given that the focus of a schoolwide program is to raise the achievement of the lowest-achieving students, a schoolwide program should ensure that its parental involvement activities include the parents of the lowest-achieving students in order that they may better assist in the education of their child.

Information and Opportunities for Parental Involvement

Schools served under Title I must involve parents, in an organized, ongoing, and timely way, in the planning, review, and improvement of Title I, Part A programs, including

- ❖ the planning, review, and improvement of the school parental involvement policy and
- ❖ the joint development of any schoolwide program plan under section 1114(b)(2). [Section 1118(c)(3), ESEA]

If a school already has in place a process for involving parents in the joint planning and design of the school's programs, the school may use that process so long as it includes an adequate representation of parents of children participating in Title I, Part A programs. [Section 1118(c)(3), ESEA]

Information/Communication: Schools served under Title I, Part A must provide to parents of participating children, in a timely manner, information about the programs funded by Title I, Part A. That information must include—

- ❖ a description and explanation of the school's curriculum;
- ❖ information on the forms of academic assessment used to measure student progress; and
- ❖ information on the proficiency levels students are expected to meet.

Parent Request for Involvement or Information:

Upon the request of parents, schools must provide

- ❖ opportunities for regular meetings for parents to formulate suggestions and to participate, as appropriate, in decisions about the education of their child.

The school must respond to any such suggestions as soon as practicably possible. [Section 1118(c)(4), ESEA]

Shared Responsibility

School-Parent Compact: Each Title I, Part A school must jointly develop, with the parents of children served under Title I, Part A, a School-Parent Compact as a component of its written parental involvement policy. A School-Parent Compact is a written agreement between the school and the parents of children participating in Title I, Part A programs that identifies the activities that the parents, the entire school staff, and the students will undertake to share the responsibility for improved student academic achievement. In addition, the School-Parent Compact outlines the activities that the parents, school staff, and students will undertake to build and develop a partnership to help the children achieve to the state’s high academic standards. [Section 1118(d)], ESEA]

The School–Parent Compact must describe

- ❖ the school’s responsibility to provide high–quality curriculum and instruction in a supportive and effective learning environment that enables children served under Title I, Part A to meet the state’s student academic achievement standards;
- ❖ ways in which parents will be responsible for supporting their child’s learning (for example, monitoring attendance, homework completion, or television watching; volunteering in their child’s classroom; and participating as appropriate in decisions relating to the education of their child and positive use of extracurricular time); and
- ❖ the importance of communication between teachers and parents on an ongoing basis through, at a minimum, communication should include
 - parent–teacher conferences in elementary schools, at least annually, during which the compact will be discussed as it relates to the individual child’s achievement,
 - frequent reports to parents on their child’s progress, and
 - reasonable access to staff, opportunities to volunteer and participate in their child’s class, and observation of classroom activities. [Section 1118(d), ESEA]

Parent Meetings

Each school served under Title I, Part A must convene an annual meeting, at a time convenient for parents to inform them of their school’s participation in Title I, Part A programs, and to explain the Title I, Part A requirements and the right of parents to be involved in those programs. In order to keep parents informed, schools must invite to this meeting all parents of children participating in Title I, Part A programs and encourage them to attend. Schools must offer a flexible number of additional parental involvement meetings, such as in the morning or evening, so as many parents as possible are able to attend. [Section 1118(c)(1) and (2), ESEA]

Information on Student Progress

Each year a school that receives Title I, Part A funds must provide parents with an individual student report informing them about their child’s level of achievement on the state’s assessments in at least reading/language arts, math, and science. [Section 1111(h)(6)(B)(i), ESEA] This report may be covered by the SEA reports on individual student academic assessments described in Section 3, page 36 of this toolkit.

Selected Practices and Tools

Click here to link to a text version of the tools.

Tool 5.1: Policy and Plan Activity Checklist

This tool is a checklist to help schools gauge their progress in meeting the Title I, Part A provisions for parental involvement. Though this tool does not provide an exhaustive list of parental involvement activities, it does demonstrate the types of activities that are expected of schools and a method for tracking those events. School staff who use this tool need to align the listed items with their school plan for parental involvement. This may include adding items.

Tool 5.2: Elementary School Policy, Descriptive Style

This tool demonstrates one format for a policy document. The tone and text are parent-friendly and encourage those reading the document to participate in parental involvement. The developers of this sample have aligned goals with specific strategies in order to provide deeper explanations of the role and activities expected for school staff and parents. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require that school policies for parental involvement follow a specific format. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

Tool 5.3: Elementary school Plan, Bulleted Style

This tool demonstrates a format for a planning document for increasing parental involvement. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require a specific format for school involvement plans. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

Tool 5.4: Secondary School–Student–Family Compact

This tool demonstrates one format for a school–student–parent compact at the secondary level. Though the Title I, Part A provisions do not require that secondary students be involved in the school–parent compact process, this example demonstrates why such involvement might be appropriate for older students. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require a specific format for school parental involvement plans: however, plans must address each of the provisions described in Title I, Part A. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

Tool 5.5: Data Collection Tool Regarding Parental Involvement

This tool contains a sampling of items from a survey that allows LEA and school staff to collect information on the experiences of parents who interact with LEA or school staff. It is not uncommon for teachers and parents to have different perspectives on the same experiences. If school staff are to develop effective parental involvement programs, they need a tool to help them determine if their efforts are well received by parents. This sampling of questions demonstrates one method for doing such evaluation.

Tool 5.6: Evaluating the Effectiveness of Parental Involvement Survey

This tool provides a sampling of items from a survey that explores the effectiveness of a parental involvement program. While this sample does not cover every possible topic, it does contain examples of many factors that need to be reviewed when considering the success of parental involvement efforts. When schools are attempting to do a comprehensive survey process, they may find that breaking the survey into smaller pieces and administering it over a few weeks is a more manageable process.

Tool 5.1: Policy and Plan Activity Checklist

Description

This tool is a checklist to help schools gauge their progress in meeting the Title I, Part A provisions for parental involvement. Though this tool does not provide an exhaustive list of parental involvement activities, it does demonstrate the types of activities that are expected of schools and a method for tracking those events. School staff who use this tool need to align the listed items with their school plan for parental involvement. This may include adding items.

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. Schools may want to use this type of tool when staff are beginning to develop their policy and plans for parental involvement.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help school staff create opportunities for parent engagement through these types of activities. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will be able to use this resource with little instruction, while others will need step-by-step training as well as follow-up.

School staff can use this type of tool to self-monitor parental involvement programs periodically. Additionally, since each school will need documentation of parental involvement activities for their state monitoring process, this type of tool provides an organized method of noting documentation as it is collected.

School staff can use this type of tool to guide the development of policy and planning.

For each of the items below, mark whether the school has fully met the requirement or has not. Then provide a description of the activity and documentation available for the activity?

Tool 5.3: Elementary School Plan, Bulleted Style

Click here to link to a text version of the tool.

Description

This tool demonstrates a format for a planning document for increasing parental involvement. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require a specific format for school parental involvement plans. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

Distribution:

Resources such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. Schools can use this type of tool when staff are beginning to develop their policy and plans for parental involvement.

School Plan for Parental Involvement

Challenging and Preparing Our Students—We believe that a partnership must exist between our parents and our school. We promote positive communication between the school and our students' homes. The school provides a variety of opportunities for parents to be involved in activities supporting our school. We believe teachers have a responsibility to provide the needed framework for parents to nurture their child's formal instruction at home. We will provide materials that can successfully be used at home to reinforce the academic success of children. It is our goal to provide an atmosphere where parents are able to express their views and to assist in problem solving. We want parents to understand that we view them as joint policy and decision makers and plan to emphasize their roles as advocates.

Gathering Information to Support the Parental Education and Involvement Plan—The Title I Parental Involvement Committee, consisting of teachers, administrators, parents, and community members, met to analyze data from surveys and discussions with teachers, administrators, parents, and community members. Using this data, the committee led a process to develop the following list of services and activities to promote parental involvement and provide additional support for student learning:

1. School staff will use a variety of communication strategies to provide additional information to parents and to increase parental involvement in supporting classroom instruction.
 - The school will distribute a monthly newsletter to parents that is developed with participation of the parent-school organization, principal, staff, and parent volunteers. It includes school news, a calendar of school activities, and parenting tips relating to school achievement such as homework tips, organizational skills, and study skills.
 - The school reading specialist and parent volunteers will create a pamphlet explaining the school's involvement with the state's reading initiative and how parents can be involved in supporting the goals of this initiative. It will be distributed at parent orientation night and other public meetings.

- The school will create a Web site to house classroom Web sites for each teacher. Homework assignments and pertinent classroom information will be available on classroom Web sites. Also, parents can access their child's grades using a PIN number they receive at the beginning of the school year. Parents may use e-mail to communicate with members of the school staff.
 - Each teacher will send home a folder containing student papers and work samples each week. Parents will be asked to sign the folder and send it back to school.
 - Teachers will routinely contact parents on an individual basis to communicate about their child's progress.
 - The school will provide to parents reports/report cards every four weeks with information regarding their child's academic progress and upcoming classroom and school events.
 - The school will send parents a parent-friendly letter in the first report card that explains their child's test results and standardized test scores.
 - The school will offer parents a special workshop each year on the school's approach to school improvement.
 - The school will send brochures home with students, post notices in school facilities and public buildings, and provide information for local newspapers and radio stations about parent workshops and meetings.
 - The school will use the student handbook, school Web site, signage at the school entrance, and parent orientation meetings about the Schoolwide Title I Plan and how to get a copy upon request.
- 2. The school will hold parent meetings, conferences, and activities regularly throughout the year to increase parental involvement and build staff and parent capacity to engage in these types of efforts.
- These meetings will include parent-training sessions to help parents understand how to enhance their child's education.
 - These meetings will include a series of family reading nights that provide an opportunity for parents and their child to experience the school situation in a positive and helpful manner while school staff may provide any needed assistance or encouragement.
 - The meetings will be held at various times during the day or evening to better accommodate parents.
 - Outside speakers will provide parents with more information concerning ways to make their child's academic life more successful.
 - The school will hold an orientation for parents at each grade level to inform them about the school's participation in the Title I program and to encourage parents to be involved with reviewing and revising of the School's Title I Plan.
 - Teachers will hold conferences individually with parents of children in their classrooms. Parents will be given a summary of the student's test scores and an explanation of the interventions teachers are using to assist the child in reaching achievement goals. Parents will be asked to engage in discussion of how they can support these efforts. Parents will also be given suggestions for coordinating school-parent efforts and explanations of homework and grading procedures.

- The school will offer parents a special workshop each year to provide an explanation of the statewide assessment systems, standards, and other accountability measures.
- The school will engage parents in the following types of roles and activities to increase their involvement and support for student learning:
 - Library assistant
 - Reading buddy
 - Mentor
 - Teacher assistant
 - Tutors
 - Special parent lunches
 - Book fair helpers
 - Grandparents Day
 - Award's day presentations
 - Field day volunteers
 - Family reading nights
 - Parent education workshops
 - Orientation presentations
 - Open house
 - Parent–school organization
 - Red Ribbon week
 - Choir concerts
 - D.A.R.E. graduation
 - Various committees

3. The school will provide information to parents about volunteer opportunities.

- The school will provide opportunities for parents and community members to support the instructional program through such programs as Reading Buddies, tutoring, and special friends.
- The school will provide a list of volunteer opportunities and solicit ideas for other types of volunteer efforts during orientation of parents. Teachers will explain the requirements to parents and encourage them to become involved in the school. Brief training sessions will provide parents and community members with the information they need to participate as school volunteers in order to put them at ease and make the experience pleasant and successful.
- The school will work with Green Elementary School and Blue Middle School to help provide a smooth transition from one school to the next by raising parent awareness of procedures and related activities. The school will host special orientation programs for parents and students to help with the transition. Parents will have the opportunity to meet the new teachers at the end of the school year.

4. The school will work with parents to create a School–Parent–Student Compact.

- School staff, parents, and students will develop a school–parent–student compact. This compact will outline how parents, school staff, and students share the responsibility for improved student academic achievement and the means by which the school and parents will build and develop a partnership to help children achieve the state's high academic standards. All stakeholders will sign the compact.

5. The school will provide an opportunity for parents to engage in decision–making processes in regarding the school's Title I, Part A program.

- The school will involve parents on school improvement planning committees. To support this process, the school will offer both school staff and parents training on how to contribute to this process in a meaningful way.
- The school will ask parents to serve on curricular and instructional review committees. To support this process, the school will offer both school staff and parents training on how to contribute to this process in a meaningful way.

- The school will engage parents in decisions about the allocation of its Title I, Part A funds for parental involvement.

6. The school will provide a parent resource center for parents.

- Parents may check out materials, use the computer to check grades, and visit educational Web sites. Parents will be encouraged to view the Title I Plan located in the parent resource center or media center. A suggestion sheet will also be available for parental input. The school will open the resource center at hours that are convenient to parents.

7. The school will engage parents in an evaluation of parental involvement efforts.

- The school will engage parents in the annual evaluation of the Title I, Part A program's parental involvement efforts through an annual evaluation using a comprehensive needs assessment filled out by teachers, parents, and school staff. The Title I Committee, made up of teachers, parents, and school staff, will determine the effectiveness of the parental involvement plan and make changes if warranted. While collecting evidence about satisfaction with the program and the school's efforts to increase parental involvement will be a part of the evaluation, the survey will also collect specific information on the (1) growth in numbers of parents participating in workshops and meetings; (2) specific needs of parents; (3) effectiveness of specific strategies; and (4) engagement of parents in activities to support student academic growth.

Description

This tool demonstrates one format for a school–student–parent compact at the secondary level. Though the Title I, Part A provisions do not require that secondary students be involved in the school–parent compact process, this example demonstrates why such involvement might be appropriate for older students. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require a specific format for parental involvement plans; however, plans must address each of the provisions described in Title I, Part A. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

Distribution

Templates such as this are commonly provided at school improvement meetings sponsored by SEAs, included in technical assistance resources, and posted on SEA Web sites. Schools can use this type of tool when staff are beginning to develop their policy and plans for parental involvement.

School staff should distribute the final plan to parents through a variety of media, such as paper, mail, or Internet.

Suggestions for Use

SEA staff can use this document as part of training to help school staff create opportunities for parent engagement through these types of activities. SEA staff should anticipate that some LEA staff will use this template with little instruction, while others will need step–by–step training as well as follow–up.

School staff can use a sample such as this one to begin discussion of their parental involvement plan.

School-Parent Compact: High School

The high school believes that significant learning by a student is more likely to occur when there is an effective partnership between the school and the student’s parents/guardians (“parents”). Such a partnership means a mutual belief in and commitment to significant educational goals for a student, a plan for the means to accomplish those goals, cooperation on developing and implementing solutions to problems that may be encountered and continuing communication regarding the progress in accomplishing the goal(s).

To accomplish this goal, the school staff commit to

- provide information to parents in a timely, useful, and engaging manner,
- support parents in their efforts to engage in their child’s education,
- encourage parents to engage in their child’s education, and
- hold themselves, the students, and the parents accountable in meeting the academic needs of every child.

To accomplish this goal, the school staff ask parents to commit to

- engage with school staff in strategies to support students in achieving the learning objectives,
- provide a home environment that supports the school’s efforts to increase student performance, and
- set high academic expectations for their child.

To accomplish this goal, the school staff ask students to commit to

- encourage their parents to support them in their education,
- participate in parent–school events, and
- set high academic expectations for themselves.

The following activities will help school staff and parents to accomplish the goals:

Meetings, Conferences, and Events

- School staff will hold an annual meeting to inform parents about the district parental involvement plan, the parents' right to be involved in the education of their child, and the School–Parent–Student Compact. School staff, parents, and students will be encouraged to attend and actively participate in these events.
- School staff will post information about parental involvement meetings and extracurricular parental involvement activities on the district Web site and in public venues and send notices via e–mail. Parents will be encouraged to also share information via informal networks.
- School staff will hold regular parent/teacher conferences on a flexible schedule. Parents will be encouraged to request conferences when they have questions about their child's academic performance, testing procedures, and postsecondary planning.
- School staff will plan and hold an annual recognition event for parents and volunteers who have helped throughout the year. Students will be asked to take a special role in helping to recognize parents' efforts.

Communication

- School staff will publish the school newsletter to inform parents about the parental involvement plan and other events at the school. Parents and students will be encouraged to submit articles and information for this newsletter.
- School staff will publish invitations to parents to participate in various activities including information sessions and scheduled school meetings and activities. These invitations will be shared through the school newsletter, the local newspaper, phone trees, e–mail, phone calls, and other public venues.
- School staff will engage parents and students in focused brainstorming sessions at least once monthly to provide them the opportunity to share concerns and desires, to better improve the school environment and student achievement.
- School staff will place announcements about parental involvement and parent notification as appropriate on the local cable television channel in a consistent and timely manner.
- Every school staff member will participate in communication activities, including, but not limited to, phone calls, e–mail, and home visits to communicate with parents. Furthermore school staff will ensure that at least one parent in every child's home is contacted by a teacher or other school staff member at least twice a year. Parents will be encouraged to call staff to answer questions. Suggested times to call each staff member will be posted on the school Web site.
- School staff will collaborate with parents to provide workshops to assist parents in understanding test data and interpretation. Parents' input and assistance will be requested at events and through all communication activities.

Reaching Out

- School staff will encourage continued positive partnerships and involvement throughout the community by encouraging parents and students to engage in planning, feedback, and review activities. Moreover, parents will be encouraged to help present at staff professional development activities.
- School staff and parents will work collaboratively to work with students on postsecondary planning.

- Parents will be asked work with school staff to offer training to staff to assist them in understanding how to communicate and reach out to parents.
- School staff will ask parents to work with school staff to offer training to parents to assist them in understanding how to communicate and reach out to school staff.
- School staff will actively support and engage in the parent–led after–prom committee.
- School staff will encourage parents to serve as chaperones for class field trips and other school activities.
- School staff will provide opportunities for discussions between parents, administrators, and staff to address problems and find solutions for students having difficulties, either academically or socially.
- School staff will encourage parents to join improvement decision–making committees and long–range planning teams.
- School staff will involve parents in decisions related to the use of Title I, Part A funds for parental involvement.

Academic Support

- School staff will share the school–student–family compact that outlines how parents and school staff will share the responsibility for improved student achievement of their student with all parents at annual meetings and through the school Web site. Information about the compact will also be referenced in newsletters, e–mails, and other common communication channels.
- School staff will share information with parents about all of the school’s special support programs, including the National Honor Society free tutoring program, and extracurricular activities. Parents will be encouraged to support their child’s participation in these activities.
- School staff will post homework assignments and related materials on the school Web site to help parents and students have easy access to assignments. School staff will provide information to students and parents on how to access this Web site in communication activities and meetings and conferences.
- School staff will provide information regarding the student’s individual assessment results, reading results, progress reports, and report cards at parent conferences and other times as appropriate. Parents and students will be encouraged to ask questions about this information. School staff will also offer workshops to parents on using this information to support their child’s learning and plan for postsecondary education.
- School staff will engage parents in efforts to increase student academic support as well as school improvement. School staff will provide descriptions and explanations of the curriculum, instructional strategies, and assessment processes used at the school. Parents and students will be encouraged to ask questions. School staff will share information related to these topics routinely in communication publications.

Description

This tool contains a sampling of items from a survey that allows LEA and school staff to collect information on the experiences of parents who interact with LEA or school staff. It is not uncommon for teachers and parents to have different perspectives on the same experiences. If school staff are to develop effective parental involvement programs, they need a tool to help them determine if their efforts are well received by parents. This sampling of questions demonstrates one method for such evaluation.

Distribution

School staff may administer and collect data from tools such as this through a variety of methods. They can be Web-based, paper-and-pencil administrations at meetings, phone interviews, or any other viable method.

Once the surveys have been administered and data is accumulated, school staff should develop a method for sharing the analysis.

Suggestions for Use

School staff can ask parents to be a part of the teams that analyze data coming from the survey administration.

To increase parent participation in the survey process, school staff can ask parents to help them administer the tool.

School staff may want to hold a joint meeting with parents and staff to review the data as a form of professional development for staff and a form of developing a greater understanding of the school culture for parents.

This survey is designed to help us determine if we have a family-friendly school. We ask each of you to carefully consider each of the qualities listed on the left side of the page and then rate your experience by checking off the appropriate box on the right side of the quality. We have also left a space for comments under the rating boxes. Please feel free to add any comments that will help us to understand your rating in the area.

You will notice we use four descriptions to rate your experience in our schools:

Get High Marks!—The school has really worked hard to address this aspect of family-friendliness, and there are no major omissions.

Getting There—The school has done some notable things to address this aspect of family-friendliness, but there are one or two significant omissions.

Needs Work—The school has done a few things to address this aspect of family-friendliness, but there are several serious omissions.

Needs Significant Work!—The school has not made much of an attempt to address this aspect of family-friendliness; parental involvement has been largely overlooked.

Tool 5.6: Evaluating the Effectiveness of Parental Involvement Survey

Description

This tool provides a sampling of items from a survey that explores the effectiveness of a parental involvement program. While this sample does not cover every possible topic, it does contain examples of many factors that need to be reviewed when considering the success of parental involvement efforts. When schools are attempting to do a comprehensive survey process, they may find that breaking the survey into smaller pieces and administering it over a few weeks is a more manageable process.

Distribution

Once the results of the survey have been analyzed, school staff should share the results with the parents of the Title I school's students and staff.

Suggestions for Use

School staff can use the analysis of the data from the survey in a joint staff and parent meeting in order to create shared understanding on key parental involvement issues.

Parental Involvement Survey

Our school system is working to strengthen partnerships between schools and families in order to help children perform better in school. In order to continue to do so, we need to collect information regarding the involvement of parents in the schools their child attends. The purpose of this survey is to get your opinion on how well the schools have met your family's and child's needs and how you feel about the school's parental involvement activities. There are no right or wrong answers. We are only interested in your opinions. The findings of the survey will be summarized and used to make improvements.

DIRECTIONS: Please check the selection that most closely matches your answer for each item. The last page provides room for written comments.

LEA and School Responsibilities to Build Capacity

LEA and School Responsibilities to Build Capacity

Each school and LEA receiving assistance under Title I, Part A must ensure effective involvement of parents and support a partnership among the school, the parents, and the community to improve student academic achievement through training, information, and coordination activities.

[Section 1118(e), ESEA]

Assistance and Training

Focus for Assistance and Training: It is the responsibility of schools and LEAs to help parents understand topics that will help them become equal partners with educators in improving their child's academic achievement. Schools and LEAs must help parents understand such things as

- ❖ the state's academic content standards and state student academic achievement standards;
- ❖ state and local academic assessments, including alternative assessments;
- ❖ the parental involvement requirements of Section 1118; and
- ❖ how to monitor their child's progress and work with educators to improve the achievement of their child. [Section 1118(e)(1), ESEA]

Types of Assistance and Training: Schools and LEAs must provide materials and training to support parental involvement efforts to improve child's achievement.

Typical activities might include the following:

- ❖ establishing literacy programs that bond families around reading and using the public library;
- ❖ providing information about the essential components of reading instruction to enable parents to support the instructional practices used by the teacher; and
- ❖ training parents in the use of the Internet to enable them to access their child's homework, communicate with teachers, and review information posted about schools in School Improvement, Supplemental Educational Services, School Choice and other opportunities to promote student achievement. [Section 1118(e)(2), ESEA]

Appropriate Use of Funds for Assistance and Training: SEAs must encourage an LEA and its schools receiving Title I, Part A funds to offer family literacy services (using Title I, Part A funds) if the LEA or school determines that a substantial number of Title I, Part A students have parents who do not have a secondary school diploma or its recognized equivalent or who have low levels of literacy. [Section 1111(c)(14), ESEA]

Title I, Part A funds can be used to support the full range of family literacy activities, including parenting education and educational services for adults who need improved literacy skills in order to support their child’s learning, if the LEA has exhausted all other reasonably available sources of funding for those activities. [Section 1118(e)(7), ESEA]

Parent Volunteers

Parents can volunteer in classroom activities as a way to share responsibility for student learning. Volunteering and observing in the classroom is also a strategy that helps both the school and parents build and develop a partnership to help students achieve the state’s high standards. [Section 1118(d)(1), ESEA]

Staff Training

Schools and LEAs must educate their staffs in how to work with parents as equal partners. Specifically, with the assistance of parents, schools and LEAs must educate teachers, pupil services personnel, principals, and other staff in

- ❖ the value and utility of the contributions of parents,
- ❖ strategies for reaching out to, communicating with, and working with parents,
- ❖ strategies to implement, and coordinate parent programs; and
- ❖ methods to build ties between parents and the school.

Schools and LEAs may involve parents in developing this training, in order to improve its effectiveness. [Section 1118(e)(3) and (6), ESEA]

Strengthening Parental Involvement

Eliminating Barriers: Schools may use the following strategies or others to foster parental involvement:

- ❖ Schools may pay reasonable and necessary expenses associated with local parental involvement activities, including transportation and childcare costs, to enable parents to participate in school-related meetings and training sessions.

- ❖ Schools and LEAs should also arrange school meetings at a variety of times.
- ❖ For parents who are unable to attend conferences at school, schools may arrange for and conduct in-home conferences between teachers or other educators who work directly with participating children and the children’s parents.
- ❖ Schools may provide training to parents in how to enhance the involvement of other parents. [Section 1118(e)(8), (9), and (10), ESEA]

In addition, to the extent feasible, schools and LEAs must conduct other activities, such as forming parent resource centers, that encourage and support parents in becoming more involved in their child’s education. [Section 1118(e)(4), ESEA]

Appropriate Allocation of Funds

Ninety-five percent of the 1% of Title I, Part A, Section 1118 allocation the LEA reserves for parental involvement under Section 1118 must be distributed among the district’s schools. Furthermore, the parents in those schools must be involved both in deciding how those funds will be allotted and, once allotted, how they will be spent.

However, parents of children receiving Title I, Part A, Section 1118 services and school officials may decide at the school level to pool their individual resources to pay for district-level parental involvement activities, such as a parent resource center.

Program Coordination

To the extent feasible and appropriate, schools and LEAs must coordinate and integrate parental involvement programs and activities with the following programs:

- ❖ Head Start,
- ❖ Reading First,
- ❖ Early Reading First,
- ❖ Even Start Family Literacy programs,
- ❖ Home Instruction Programs for Preschool Youngsters,
- ❖ Parents as Teachers,
- ❖ public preschools, and
- ❖ other relevant programs, such as Title III language instructional programs.

[Sections 1112(b) (1), and (E), 1118(a)(D), ESEA]

The department also encourages schools and LEAs to develop appropriate roles for community-based organizations, including faith-based organizations, and businesses in parental involvement activities. These organizations should form partnerships among the school involved, the parents, and the community to improve student academic achievement. [Section 1118(e)(13), ESEA]

Selected Practices and Tools

Tool 6.1: Parent-Friendly Information on Content Standards

This tool provides a sample document that can be used to help parents understand the importance and use of standards-based curriculum. There is no one best method for helping parents to understand how standards are a key component of school improvement; however, this tool is only one way to start the process.

Tool 6.2: Explanation for School Report Cards

This tool is an example of a resource that helps non-educators understand the information contained in school report cards. There is no required method for helping parents to understand these reports; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools assist parents in interpreting the information in report cards so that they are better able to support their child's education. This tool provides one way to do so.

Tool 6.3: Explanation of State Accountability System

This tool provides a sample format for explaining the state's accountability system. It is intended to help non-educators understand the state's system. There is no required method for helping parents to understand this process; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools assist parents in understanding the accountability system and the information it produces so that they are better able to support their child's education. This tool is one example of how to provide assistance.

Tool 6.4: Parent Action Resource

This tool is a parent-friendly resource to assist parents to foster student learning. There is no required method or form for such assistance; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools provide assistance to parents as they support their child's education. This tool is one example of how to provide assistance.

Tool 6.5: Building Collaborative Partnerships—Meaningful Engagement

This tool provides handouts and brief facilitation directions for a series of activities that can help to lay a foundation for meaningful engagement with parents. Because school staff and parents see education from different perspectives, they must find common ground before they can become collaborative partners. There are no specific collaborative practices for LEAs and schools required in the Title I, Part A provisions. However, LEAs and schools are expected to meaningfully engage parents in supporting their child’s education and in developing their capacity, and staff capacity, to do so. This type of activity helps build shared goals and understanding about education that is often a foundation of strong parent–school collaborations.

Description

This tool provides a sample document that can be used to help parents understand the importance and use of standards-based curriculum. There is no one best method for helping parents to understand how standards are a key component of school improvement; however, this tool is one way to start the process.

Distribution

Documents such as this are commonly distributed at school-parent meetings or conferences as a support for information regarding standards. Information from this tool can also be included in newsletters, brochures, student handbooks, and other materials that are typically read by parents.

Suggestions for Use

LEA and school staff can use this tool as a handout for a presentation on the school improvement process.

The information can be reformatted into a take-home brochure for parents who attend school improvement meetings to share with other parents and community members.

School staff can share this tool with local newspapers and radio stations that disseminate school progress information. It will help to contextualize the data that is presented.

This tool, or information from this tool, can also be used to help frame Title I school improvement meetings where parents are being asked to help make decisions on improvement strategies when they have limited understanding of the term or ideas being expressed.

Understanding Standards-Based Curriculum . . .

What are content standards?

Content standards identify what students are expected to know and be able to do at each grade level in reading, language arts, science, mathematics, social studies, and other academic content areas.

For example, when they complete Grade 2, all students should be able to

- Count, read, and write numbers up to 1,000.
- Sounds out words with ease when reading

The content standards represent an essential core of knowledge and abilities that all students must have to be successful in school and in their adult life. Content standards help teachers decide what to teach at each grade level so that every student is prepared to go to the next grade, and, most importantly, be academically successful throughout school. If we expect every child to meet the same standards, then “no child is left behind.”

Why do we need content standards?

The content standards provide common goals and expectations for student learning across the state. Consistent expectations for teaching and learning provide meaningful information about how students are achieving.

Content standards help ensure that a third grader in one school is learning the same important skills in reading, writing, math, and other academic areas as the third graders in any other school.

Why do parents need to know and understand standards?

With set standards for learning in each subject area and at each grade level, parents have better information about what their child are expected to know and be able to do. With this knowledge, parents are better able to talk with teachers about their child’s abilities, support their child’s learning at home, and understand the results of standardized testing. Parents can request the standards for their child’s academic performance from their teacher(s).

How are standards used in helping students to be academically successful?

Teachers use them to	Parents use them to Understanding Report Cards

Today, school quality is judged by how well students perform. The improvement provisions in Title I mandate that every student achieve at the “proficiency” level by 2014. The state accountability system is set up to measure how well both schools and students are meeting the proficiency goal. This document can help you understand how to read your school’s report card as he or she progresses toward meeting this expectation.

Reports on schools and school systems

The state department of education prepares a report card for every school in our state and makes these available on its Web site. The report card shows data for each individual school as it compares to the whole county and/or the whole state. An electronic copy is free—just go online—or you can order a print copy by phoning the state department of education at 555.555.5555, ext. 555.

Data sources

Most of the information in the school reports comes from records that people in the schools and district offices keep. State and federal laws help school officials decide what data to collect. The data are entered into the Education Information System (EIS), and the state department uses this system to analyze data and create reports.

Subgroups

You will notice that data in the report cards are sometimes listed according to subgroups. These are groups of students who have been defined by the Title I, Part A provisions and are purposely reported separately. Generally, these are students who may struggle with learning and, in the past, were averaged into the school’s overall performance. Because of this, they were easy to “leave behind,” something that separating the data helps to prevent.

Understanding what data say

Comparing results from several years, a technique called longitudinal analysis, can help educators and parents understand trends. This works best when the same kind of information is collected each year; however, that is not always possible. For example, our state changed its statewide test from a norm-referenced one to a criterion-referenced one during the 2003–2004 school year. We can tell whether students performed better in math between 2004 and 2008 because the state used the same test each of those years. However, we can't compare these results to the 2003 results because the tests were different.

In some sections, the school is compared to the whole state; in other sections, the county results also appear.

Accountability

In the accountability section of the report card, the school is rated on student attendance and on the percentages of students who took the statewide tests in math and reading. High schools are rated also on how many students graduate. The state has set targets for all these areas, and if the school meets the targets (or does better), it makes Adequate Yearly Progress as required by NCLB.

The following chart demonstrates percentage of students who were rated as proficient on the in 6th grade reading assessment.

Each school’s report card will contain several charts like this one to help communicate performance information in different areas and content subjects. Within this information, there should be a statement of where students are expected to be during that school year. For example, in the chart below, note the line with the red arrow. That is the achievement target. You will notice that not all students are meeting this school’s target.

Teacher information

The Title I, Part A provisions require districts and schools to make sure teachers are “highly qualified.” The report card shows the percentages of teachers who have achieved various levels of education. The numbers that appear beside a degree, such as a Master’s Degree+15, indicate the number of extra credit hours a group of teachers has taken. The section, labeled “Teachers on Permits,” shows how many teachers are working under special permits while they take classes to become fully certified.

Example of Teacher Information Section of NCLB Report Card
Level of Education	School	County	State
By percent
Bachelor’s Degree	23.8%	23.4%	24.2%
Bachelor’s Degree+15	22.5%	32.1%	29.4%
Master’s Degree	17.7%	12.2%	16.4%
Master’s Degree+15		5.9%	8.7%
Doctorate		0.5%	1.1%
By number
Teachers on Permits	1	23	1,018

Your school is required to notify you of your right to know the qualifications of your child’s teachers and the classroom paraprofessionals and if your child is taught by an unqualified teacher for more than 4 weeks.

Discipline

This section indicates whether the school met the standard for keeping discipline referrals as low as possible. Information in this section may also be displayed in charts. This section is intended to make sure you know if your child is attending a safe school. The following table provides an example of how the report will keep you informed about the safety in your school. As you see, this school had numerous safety issues in 2004. While there are still safety concerns in 2007, the school has made changes in its approach to creating a safe school, and discipline has improved significantly.

Number of Suspensions	128	78	20	0
Number of Expulsions	79	52	47	20

Attendance/graduation rates

This section of the report card shows attendance and graduation rates. NA (or N/A) means not applicable, and it appears in the box for graduation rate if the school is an elementary or middle school. School attendance is not only an accountability issue for AYP; it is also a determining factor in school funding. This chart reflects an improvement in attendance.

Yellow Elementary	89	93	96	98
Orange Middle School	87	95	94	97
Red High School	83	82	90	93

School information

The school report will also provide information on the demographics of the school and other general information. For example, you might see the following types of information:

- Total number of students in the school
- Number of students in each demographic subgroup (i.e., African American, White, Hispanic, and others)
- Average number of students in each class
- Dropout rate (not applicable for elementary schools)
- Percentages of highly qualified teachers
- Number of students for every administrator and teacher
- Average years of experience of principals, teacher, counselors, librarians, and so on
- Number of Advanced Placement or dual college credit classes at the secondary level
- Percentages of students who took the ACT and SAT tests with a composite, or average, score students earned and percentage of students taking Advanced Placement exams.

Description

This tool provides a sample format for explaining the state's accountability system. It is intended to help non-educators understand the state's system. There is no required method for helping parents to understand this process; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools assist parents in understanding the accountability system and the information it produces so that they are better able to support their child's education. This tool is one example of how to provide assistance.

Distribution

Developers for this tool can disseminate this type of document at meetings, conferences, or workshops or through their Web site.

Suggestions for Use

LEAs and schools can distribute these types of resources during the annual meeting or during the regular teacher-student-parent conferences.

This type of tool can be used as a handout for a workshop for parents. However, staff need to help parents engage with and discuss this information if it is to have value.

A Review of the State's Accountability System

No Child Left Behind requires that all students must be academically proficient (demonstrating a high level of skill) in mathematics, reading/language arts, and science by 2014. The state accountability system is set up to measure how well both schools and students are doing toward meeting the proficiency goal.

Moreover, schools who serve Title I eligible students have additional obligations. Title I provides funding for high poverty schools to help students who are behind academically or at risk of falling behind. About 45% of our state's public schools are Title I schools. You can find out if your school is a Title I school by asking your principal or by going to department of education Web site for a listing of Title I schools.

This document will help you understand how our state uses standards and assessments to reach our goal to ensure that every child receives a quality education and reaches high academic expectations. However, if you have additional questions, you should call your local school. You can also find additional information on the department of education Web site or the U.S. Department of Education Web site at www.ed.gov.

Academic Standards

Title I, Part A requires that states develop standards and that those standards be measured as part of its accountability procedures. Even though our state has used academic standards and accountability procedures for many years, we reviewed and updated our assessments and procedures to ensure we would be able to meet the challenges of the new Title I legislation.

Academic standards are public statements about what all students should know and be able to do. Our state has standards for all academic subjects for each grade. Your local school district can provide copies of the standards, which are available on the state department's Web site and in print on request from the department of education as well. Below is an example of a fifth-grade math standard.

Competency Goal 2:	The learner will recognize and use standard units of metric and customary measurement.
Objectives	11.01	Estimate the measure of an object in one system given the measure of that object in another system.
	11.02	Identify, estimate, and measure the angles of plane figures using appropriate tools.

Assessments

All schools must measure student achievement in reading/language in grades 3–8 each year and at least once during the high school years, and science achievement at least once in grades 3–5, 6–9, and 10–12. Each student’s test results are reported in terms of Level IV, advanced; Level III, proficient; Level II, basic; and Level I, below basic. Students at Level III have demonstrated that they are proficient in the content area.

Public Reporting

Each school must issue a "report card" for each school. We have reviewed and adapted our reporting procedures to ensure that we are meeting the requirements of Title I, Part A. These mandates require that the information on the report card be more detailed than previous reports. Each district and school is provided reports on how well the state, district, school, and individual students are performing in student achievement, attendance, dropout (high school only), school safety, and teacher quality. For example, public reports might include a table such as the one below to demonstrate how well the school compares to the district and the state in overall academic achievement.

Performance of Students in Each Grade Taking the End-of-Grade Tests by Percentage Achieving Master
	Grade 3		Grade 4		Grade 5		Grade 6		Overall
	Reading	Math	Reading	Math	Reading	Math	Reading	Math	Reading	Math
Our School	83.1	73.2	81.2	63.5	89.9	62.9	n/a	n/a	84.6	65.9

District	77.5	69.0	80.9	64.1	84.7	61.0	79.4	63.0	81.9	64.2
State	82.9	67.8	83.4	65.0	88.4	63.1	81.5	61.9	84.9	63.4

However, these reports must also report information by specific groups of students, as you can see below. By reporting the overall data as well as the subgroup data, the academic achievement of students as a whole at a school can't mask the underachievement of certain groups of students. This possible difference is called the “achievement gap.” Schools must work to ensure that this gap is closed. The chart below is an example of how subgroup data is reported.

Of course, parents are usually most interested in the achievement level of their child. Your school is required by law to keep you informed of your child's achievement level.

Highly Qualified Teachers

You have a right to request information on the qualifications of your child’s teacher(s) or classroom paraprofessional. This information includes degrees held, certifications held, and whether the teacher is certified in the area he/she is teaching.

All teachers who teach in core academic subject areas are required to be highly qualified. Highly qualified teachers are fully certified and/or licensed by the state; hold at least a bachelor's degree from a four-year institution; and demonstrate competence in each core academic subject area in which they teach. Our state’s school report cards compares teacher information from your school and district to others across the state under the “Quality Teachers” tab. Title I schools must notify parents if their child has been assigned, or has been taught for at least four consecutive weeks, by a teacher who does not meet the highly qualified criteria. Parents also may request information concerning whether their child is receiving instruction by a teacher assistant and, if so, his/her qualifications. A special communication process is utilized between schools and parents of students with disabilities or English language learners.

Parental Involvement

There are many ways parents can be involved in their child’s education including the following:

- ❖ Stay informed by carefully reviewing the district and school report cards as well as your child’s performance report.
- ❖ Participate in decision-making opportunities regarding funding. A school district with a Title I allocation of more than $500,000 must determine the percentage of the allocation that it wishes to reserve for parental involvement activities. This amount must be at least one (1) percent of the school district’s Title I allocation. Title I parents are to be involved in the decisions regarding how reserved funds will be used for parental involvement.
- ❖ Participate in planning and decision-making opportunities in a meaningful way as part of developing a written parental involvement policy and parental involvement plan/School–Parent Compact. The School–Parent Compact must provide descriptions of school staff and parent roles to support student achievement.
- ❖ Review the written parental involvement policy and plan that the school shares at its annual parent meeting.

Adequate Yearly Progress

You may hear that your school "made AYP" or "didn't make AYP." AYP stands for Adequate Yearly Progress. AYP is a calculation measuring the yearly progress toward achieving grade-level performance in math and reading for each student group in a school, district, or state. AYP is applied to each of the three subject areas, at all tested grade levels, for all population groups.

Our goal is for all public school children to perform at grade level in reading/language arts, mathematics, and science by the end of the 2013–2014 school year. The AYP procedure is designed to provide information as to whether schools, districts, and states are making progress toward meeting that goal.

If just one student group at a school does not meet a target goal, then the school does not make AYP for that year. Forty or more students across the tested grades in a school in the following categories make up students groups: (1) the school as a whole (all students), (2) White, (3) African American, (4) Hispanic, (5) Native American, (6) Asian, (7) multiracial, (8) economically disadvantaged students (students eligible for free or reduced-price lunch), (9) limited English proficient students, and (10) students with disabilities. Many students are counted in more than one group. This requirement of the law is to make sure that historically underserved students receive the attention they need and deserve.

Failure to Make AYP

If your school receives Title I funding and it doesn't make AYP in the same subject for two or more years in a row, then the school must send you a letter informing you of that fact and your options. Title I schools that haven't met state target goals for AYP for two or more years in the same subject (reading/language arts or math) are designated as "School Improvement" schools. Sanctions escalate for schools remaining in School Improvement for multiple years. (See the chart below, School Improvement Status.) To exit School Improvement, schools must make AYP for two years in a row in the subject that designated them for School Improvement. Non-Title I schools that do not make AYP do not face sanctions, but must amend their School Improvement Plans to indicate how they will improve. In past years, over half of the state's schools have not made AYP.

School Choice

Schools that are designated as in "School Improvement" must offer all parents in the school the option of transferring their child to other schools, not in School Improvement, designed by the district. The district pays the transportation costs when parents choose to transfer their child.

Title I School Improvement schools must offer School Choice until the school makes AYP for two years in a row for the subject area that was first identified as a low performance content area. School Choice must be offered in addition to other obligations that schools must fulfill if they remain in Title I School Improvement after one year.

A student who transfers to a choice school can remain at that school until he or she has completed the highest grade in the school. However, the school district is not obligated to provide transportation for the student after the end of the school year in which the original school is no longer identified for Title I School Improvement.

*Schools in districts in the SES Pilot Program offer Supplemental Educational Services, not School Choice, at this stage.

NOTE: Title I schools enter School Improvement after two consecutive years of not making Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) in the same subject (reading/language arts or mathematics). Title I schools exit School Improvement after two consecutive years of making AYP in the subject that identified them for School Improvement. If a school makes AYP in the identifying subject in any one year after entering School Improvement, it does not move to the next level of sanctions in the next school year. For every year a school in School Improvement does not make AYP in the identifying subject, it moves to the next level of sanctions. It is possible for a school to exit School Improvement for one subject, while entering into or remaining in School Improvement based on the other subject.

Supplemental Educational Services

After three years of not making AYP in the same subject, a Title I school must offer special tutoring services, known as Supplemental Educational Services, to economically disadvantaged students. Supplemental Educational Services are extra academic services such as tutoring and other academic enrichment services offered outside of the regular school day to help students improve reading and mathematics skills. State Board–approved providers serve as tutors.

Students are eligible if they are eligible for free or reduced–cost school lunch and attend a Title I school that has not made Adequate Yearly Progress in the same subject for three or more years.

Terms Mentioned in the Document

Academic (achievement) standards are set by the Standard Course of Study (SOS) outlining what all students should know and be able to do for each grade level and academic subject. It defines the minimum standards for school systems to follow and to communicate to the public. State accountability measures are derived from the state curriculum.

Accountability is the system in which the state requires that schools and districts meet achievement standards for what students should know and learn at each grade level. Assessments and public reporting of assessment results are part of the accountability system of finding out and reporting if students are making progress toward meeting the achievement standards.

Achievement gap refers to the differences in academic performance, as measured by test scores or graduation rates, between different groups of students. Under No Child Left Behind, these groups are based on racial or ethnic backgrounds, family income, student disability, or English language proficiency.

Assessment is another word for “test.” The term assessment is sometimes used to encompass not only standard test administration, but state–designed alternate assessments by which some students with disabilities are measured.

Core academic subjects are English, reading, language arts, math, science, foreign languages, civics and government, social studies, economics, arts, history, geography, and kindergarten through Grade 6 (K–6). Under NCLB, only teachers meeting highly qualified criteria can teach these subjects.

District Improvement is the status a district enters by not meeting target goals in the same subject (reading/language arts or math) in each of three grade spans (3–5, 6–8, and high school) for two years in a row. All school districts that receive Title I funding are subject to being placed in Title I District Improvement. A district in Title I District Improvement must inform parents of the district’s status, revise its local education plan, and set aside 10% of its Title I allotment for professional development purposes, and it can no longer be a direct provider of Supplemental Educational Services.

Elementary and Secondary Education Act is the principal federal law affecting K–12 education. When the ESEA of 1965 was reauthorized and amended in 2001, it was renamed the No Child Left Behind Act. The 2001 reauthorization represented significant changes from the 1994 reauthorization that affects all public elementary and secondary schools in the country.

Highly Qualified is an NCLB–defined teacher requirement that means a teacher has obtained full state teacher certification or has passed the state teacher licensing examination and holds a license to teach in the state; holds a minimum of a bachelor's degree; and has demonstrated subject area competence.

No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Act of 2001 is the most recent reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Authorization Act of 1965. The reauthorized law added strict new accountability changes and mandated that every child be taught by a Highly Qualified teacher. The law emphasizes standards for teachers and consequences for Title I schools that do not meet student achievement standards for two or more consecutive years. The law's major goal is for every school to be at 100% proficiency by 2013–2014 as measured by state tests.

Standard Course of Study (CSOS) provides a guideline of what all students should know and be able to do for each grade level and academic subject. It defines the minimum standards for school systems to follow and to communicate to the public. State accountability measures are derived from the state curriculum.

Proficient/Proficiency are terms referring to student work that meets the achievement standard set by the state for that grade level.

Restructuring is a sanction level applied to a Title I school. After five years of not making Adequate Yearly Progress, the school must plan for Restructuring. After six years of not making Adequate Yearly Progress, the school must implement the plan for Restructuring.

Sanctions is the term often used to describe the consequences for Title I schools in various levels of Title I School Improvement.

School Choice refers to the sanction applied to Title I schools not meeting state proficiency target goals for Adequate Yearly Progress in the same subject (reading/language arts, mathematics, or science) for two or more years. Those schools must offer parents the option of transferring their child to another public school designated by the district, as required by No Child Left Behind.

School Improvement is the status a Title I school enters after not making Adequate Yearly Progress for two consecutive years in the same subject (reading/language arts or math). A Title I school exits School Improvement after two consecutive years of making Adequate Yearly Progress in the subject that identified it for School Improvement (reading/language arts and/or math). It is possible for a school to exit School Improvement for one subject, while entering into or remaining in School Improvement based on the other subject.

Supplemental Educational Services (SES) are extra academic services, such as tutoring, offered outside of regular school hours free of cost to eligible students. Low–income students who are attending Title I schools in Title I School Improvement are eligible. Services are designed to increase the academic achievement of low–income students, particularly in the areas of reading, language arts, and mathematics. The State Board of Education must approve service providers.

The ABCs of Public Education is our state's major school reform effort focusing on local school accountability, an emphasis on student mastery of basic skills, and as much local board and local educator control as possible.

Title I is the largest federal education–funding program. It provides funding for high–poverty schools to help students who are behind academically or at risk of falling behind.

Description

This tool is a parent–friendly sample of a resource to assist parents to foster student learning. There is no required method or form for doing this; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools provide assistance to parents as they support their child’s education. This tool is one example of how to provide assistance.

Distribution

SEAs, LEAs, and schools can disseminate this type of document at meetings, conferences, or workshops or through a Web site.

Suggestions for Use

LEA and school staff can distribute this type of resource during the annual meeting or during the regular teacher–student–parent conferences.

This type of tool can be used as a handout for a workshop for parents. However, staff need to help parents engage with and discuss this information if it is to have value.

Preparing for Tests: Suggestions for Parents

You can be a great help to your child if you will observe these do’s about tests and testing:

- ✓ Do talk to your child about testing. It’s helpful for children to understand why schools give tests and to know the different kinds of test they will take. Explain that tests are like yardsticks. Teachers, schools, school districts, and even states use them to measure what is taught and how well students are learning what is taught. Most tests are designed and given by teachers to measure students’ progress in a course. These tests are associated with the grades on report cards. The results tell the teacher and the students how well they are doing. The results of some tests tell schools that they need to strengthen courses or change teaching methods. Still other tests compare students by schools, school districts, or cities. Tell your child that occasionally, he or she will take “standardized” tests. Explain that these tests use the same standards to measure student performance across the state or even across the country. Every student takes the same test according to the same rules. This makes it possible to measure each student’s performance against others’.
- ✓ Do encourage your child. Praise your child for the things that he or she does well. When children feel good about themselves, they can do their best on tests. Children who are afraid of failing are more likely to become anxious when taking tests and are more likely to make mistakes.
- ✓ Do meet with your child’s teacher as often as possible to discuss his progress. Ask the teacher to suggest activities for you and your child to do at home to help prepare for tests and to improve your child’s understanding of the schoolwork.
- ✓ Do make sure that your child attends school regularly. Remember, tests reflect children’s overall achievement. The more effort and energy your child puts into learning, the more likely it is that he will do well on tests.
- ✓ Do provide a quiet, comfortable place for studying at home and make sure that your child is well rested on school days and especially on the day of a test. Children who are tired are less able to pay attention in class or to handle the demands of a test.

Tool 6.5: Building Collaborative Partnerships Resource

Description

This tool provides handouts and brief facilitation directions for a series of activities that can help to lay a foundation for meaningful engagement with parents. Because school staff and parents see education from different perspectives, they must find common ground before they can become collaborative partners. There are no specific collaborative practices required for LEAs and schools in the Title I, Part A provisions. However, LEAs and schools are expected to meaningfully engage parents in supporting their child's education and in developing their capacity, and staff capacity, to do so. This type of activity helps build shared goals and understanding about education that is often a foundation of strong parent–school collaborations.

Distribution

This tool should be used as part of the activity described or a similar type of tool. It is not as valuable as a stand-alone resource.

Suggestions for Use

LEA and school staff can use this type of process early in the year to set a tone for meaningful engagement. When staff use this type of activity, they may want to repeat it several times on different dates and at different times in order to involve a larger number of parents. Staff may want to share overall notes or ideas gathered at the meetings through a newsletter or Web site.

LEA or school staff can meet after these events to debrief what they have learned and actions they should take based on their new shared understandings.

LEAs and schools can use these types of activities as part of their processes to create a parental involvement plan or policy as well as build the capacity of staff and parents.

Collaborative Involvement–Meaningful Engagement

The following three activities may be completed at one event, or, if time is limited, they may be spread over several meetings. It is also possible to use the activities separately. The goal of these activities is to foster discussion and build shared understanding; that is, to take the first step in building an educational partnership.

For best results, use small groups of mixed participants (school staff and parents in the same group). It will be very important for the activity leader to assure the participants that there are no right answers.

For each activity, directions are given. However, activity leaders will need to make sure that each group understands the task before groups start to complete each task.

Ideally, a facilitator will stop the discussion periodically, or at the end of an activity, and engage the participants in a whole–group discussion of what they have discussed.

Activity 1: Purpose of Education

Review the following explanations for the purpose of education. These explanations are commonly found in historical descriptions of the American educational system.

Next, discuss how any or all of these explanations are reflective of your own views for the purpose for education.

Once you've talked about the definitions, answer the questions on the bottom of the page. There is space under each question for you to record ideas. Because we want to use your ideas to help us foster increased parental involvement, we ask that someone in your group share notes from your discussion with your session facilitator.

- Civil society depends on educating young people to become responsible, thoughtful, and enterprising citizens.
- Progress in every practical field depends on having a workforce that has the capacity to perform needed tasks and learn new knowledge and skills.
- One's individual development and the capacity to fulfill one's own purposes can depend on an adequate preparation in childhood.

Consider what your school needs to provide a quality education to all students and the needs of the students in the schools. What words or phrases would you like to add or remove from these explanations to describe what the purpose of education should be in our community?

How does this definition align to the strategies currently used in your school to promote student learning and to engage parents?

Activity 2: Partnerships

We would commonly define an educational partnership as

Efforts to create and foster educational partnerships in our community include . . .

- Shared understanding of educational issues and important goals necessary to promote academic success for EVERY child.
- Shared responsibility and leadership in creating a collaborative environment that supports the involvement of families, community members, and organizations in supporting the educational needs of ALL children.

Use a highlighter to mark the phrases or words in the definitions above that would best define how families and school staff should be engaged as partners in the school community.

Share the items you highlighted with the members of your group.

In the space provided below, work with your group to write your ideas about how the strategies you use to work with families and community members need to reflect these ideas. Because we want to use your ideas to help us foster increased parental involvement, we ask that someone in your group share notes from your discussion with your session facilitator.

Activity 3: Focused Improvement

Educators commonly talk about essential qualities of high-performing schools. The five qualities listed below are commonly seen in many of these lists.

As you consider this list, take a moment to consider how the policies and strategies used in your school allocate time and resources to each quality. Then use the pie chart at the bottom of the page to illustrate the percentage of time and resources that should be allocated to each of the five qualities.

- ✓ A shared understanding of goals and expectations for all involved in the school system is clearly communicated and shared with all stakeholders.
- ✓ High academic standards clearly define what students should know and be able to do.
- ✓ A strong group of leaders provides support for the goals and expectations of the school and the school community.
- ✓ Procedures for purposeful collection and analysis of data on students, programs, and staff underpin all decisions.
- ✓ Structures that establish strong, collaborative relationships with parent/family and community partners are in place.

Finally, once you have completed your task, discuss the percentages noted on your pie chart with your group. Through discussion, agree to a percentage of effort and resources allocated for each of the five qualities.

Because we want to use your ideas to help us foster increased parental involvement, we ask that someone in your group share notes from your discussion with your session facilitator.

Tool 2.3: Timeline for Title I, Part A Programs

This tool provides an example of a timeline chart to help SEAs, LEAs, and schools track their events, actions, and notifications related to Title I, Part A. While there are numerous ways to set up a timeline chart and more events that can be added to this or other timelines, this example demonstrates the value of providing a list of key items SEA, LEA, and school staff meet expectations.

This sample was adapted from the South Dakota Timeline Related to NCLB Federal Programs (2007), developed by the South Dakota Department of Education, Pierre, South Dakota. The original document is available at <http://doe.sd.gov/title/Timelines%20for%20Federal%20Programs.pdf>.

This tool does not provide an exhaustive list of goals, strategies, and activities, but it does provide insight into the use of this type of tool.

This tool was adapted from one created by the Florida Department of Education, Tallahassee, Florida, in 2007. The original is available at <http://www.fldoe.org/family/title1/>.

Tool 3.3: SEA Action Plan Implementation Checklist

This tool provides an example of a process for determining if SEAs have fully implemented their plan for supporting parental involvement. Typically, an SEA would create this type of tool as they develop their plan for supporting parental involvement efforts.

This tool was adapted from one created by the Florida Department of Education, Tallahassee, Florida, in 2007. The original is available at <http://www.fldoe.org/family/title1/>.

This tool was adapted from one created by the Louisiana Department of Education, Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The original document is available at <http://www.doe.state.la.us/ldc/uploads/11708.pdf>.

Tool 3.5: SEA Compliance Monitoring Checklist for LEAs

This tool is a second monitoring checklist sample. It focuses on a broad scope of indicators and categories, including demonstrating the role of parental involvement in the Title I, Part A provisions. Any SEA using this type of document will need to carefully correlate the indicators to the state’s Title I, Part A plan.

This tool was adapted from one created by the California Department of Education, Sacramento, California. The original document is available at <http://www.cde.ca.gov/ta/cr/cc/07instruments.asp>.

Tool 3.6: Template for LEA School Improvement

This tool contains samples from a template that SEAs can provide to LEAs to support their development of an improvement plan that includes processes and procedures to support parental involvement as defined in Title I, Part A. When SEAs create these types of templates, they should also ensure that other tools, such as checklists and monitoring instruments, are aligned to them.

This tool was adapted from one created by the Maryland Department of Education, Baltimore, Maryland, in a report from its Bridge to Excellence Master Plan Web site for Prince George County Public Schools Title I, Part A, Improving Basics Programs Plan, FY2008 report. Tool 4.3: Policy Development Checklist

This tool provides an example of a checklist that LEA staff can use to ensure that their policy aligns to Title I, Part A, Section 1118(a)(2). This sample does not incorporate all of the Title I, Part A provisions related to parental involvement. However, it does provide insight into how to develop these types of resources.

This tool was adapted from a document created by the Arizona Department of Education, Phoenix, Arizona, for the 2007–2008 school year. The original version is available at www.ade.az.gov/asd/nclb/compliance/FormsResources/cycle1/2008-LEA-TitleI-ParentInvolvementPolicy.pdf.

Tool 4.4: Action Planning—Building Systemic Support for Parental Involvement

This tool demonstrates an example of a question-driven action-planning tool for LEAs to use as they promote parental involvement. This tool emphasizes building the capacity of staff and parents in areas that are often the most challenging: standards/benchmarks, curriculum, instruction, and assessment. While this tool is not exhaustive in addressing every need or issue, it does provide a good foundation of ideas for staff to consider in promoting parental involvement.

This tool was adapted from a set of questions from Tool 2.5, Parental Engagement Tool Kit (2005), created by the Iowa State PIRC, Clive, Iowa, in 2005. The original version is available at <http://www.iowaparents.org/files/toolkit/2-5.pdf>.

Tool 4.5: Evaluating Effectiveness—Building Systemic Support for Parental Involvement

This tool was adapted from Tool 2.1, Parent Engagement Tool Kit (2005), created by the Iowa State PIRC, Clive, Iowa. The original version is available at <http://www.iowaparents.org/files/toolkit/2-1.pdf>.

Tool 4.6: Letter—Parents’ Right to Know: Qualified Teacher/Paraprofessional

This tool provides a sample letter that demonstrates one LEA’s notification process regarding teacher and paraprofessional qualifications. While there is no required template for this type of notification, this sample provides guidance in creating letters for this purpose.

This tool was adapted from translated letters developed by the Georgia Professional Standards Commission, Atlanta, Georgia which provide notification information in English and Spanish on relevant information from Improving Teacher Quality State Grants, ESEA, Title II, Part A, Non-Regulatory Guidance (2006), U.S. Department of Education, Washington, D.C. This tool was adapted from a letter created by used at Hammond City Schools, Hammond, Indiana, in 2008 and has been posted as a resource on the Indiana Department of Education Web site, along with and information on SES providers posted on the Indiana Department of Education Web site. The original documents are available at http://www.doe.state.in.us/TitleI/sample_parent_letters.html and <http://mustang.doe.in.gov/dg/ses/provider-list.cfm>.

Tool 4.13: Parental Complaint Documentation

This tool is a sample for LEAs to use in creating procedures for parents to submit their complaints. There is no required format for parents to submit complaints. LEAs should also note that a written form might not be appropriate for all parents.

This tool was adapted from a form created by the Allegany County Public Schools, Maryland, in 2008. The original document is available at http://www.acps.allconet.org/assets/uploads/file/Complaint%20Procedure\(1\).pdf.pdf).

Section 5Tool 5.1: Policy and Plan Activity Checklist

This tool is a checklist to help schools gauge their progress in meeting the Title I, Part A provisions for parental involvement. Though this tool does not provide an exhaustive list of parental involvement activities, it does demonstrate the types of activities that are expected of schools and a method for tracking those events. School staff who use this tool need to align the listed items with their school plan for parental involvement. This may include adding items.

This tool was adapted from a checklist created by Timothy Speth, Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory, Portland, Oregon.

Tool 5.2: Elementary School Policy, Descriptive Style

This tool demonstrates one format for a policy document. The tone and text are parent-friendly and encourage those reading the document to participate in parental involvement. The developers of this sample have aligned goals with specific strategies in order to provide deeper explanations of the role and activities expected for school staff and parents. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require that school policies parental involvement follow a specific format. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

This tool was adapted from the parental involvement plan used in Melrose Park Elementary, Lake City, Florida, and updated in 2009. The original version is available at <http://www.columbia.k12.fl.us/melrosepark/T1ParentInvolvePlan.html>.

Tool 5.3: Elementary School Plan, Bulleted Style

This tool demonstrates a format for a planning document for increasing parental involvement. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require a specific format for school plans for parental involvement. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

This tool was adapted from the parental involvement plan used in Cherokee Elementary School, Guntersville, Alabama, updated for the 2007–2008 school year. The original version is available at <http://www.cherokee-elementary.com/PARENTAL%20EDUCATION%20AND%20INVOLVEMENT%20PLAN.htm>.

Tool 5.4: Secondary School–Student–Family Compact

This tool demonstrates one format for a school–student–parent compact at the secondary level. Though the Title I, Part A provisions do not require that secondary students be involved in the School–Parent Compact process, this example demonstrates why this might be appropriate for older students. The Title I, Part A provisions do not require a specific format for parental involvement plans; however, plans must address each of the provisions described in Title I, Part A. Schools should use the style that best meets their needs.

This tool was adapted from the parental involvement plan used in Mason High School, Erie, Michigan, for the 2007–2008 school year. The original version is available at <http://eriemason.k12.mi.us/pdf/ParentInvolvPlan5.pdf>.

Tool 5.5: Data Collection Tool Regarding Parental Involvement

This tool contains a sampling of items from a survey that allows LEA and school staff to collect information on the experiences of parents who interact with LEA or school staff. It is not uncommon for teachers and parents to have different perspectives on the same experiences. If school staff are to develop effective parental involvement programs, they need a tool to help them determine if their efforts are well received by parents. This sampling of questions demonstrates one method for doing this.

This tool was adapted from a section from the Rhode Island State PIRC's (Pawtucket, Rhode Island) parental involvement toolkit (2008).

Tool 5.6: Evaluating the Effectiveness of Parental Involvement Survey

This tool provides a sampling of items from a survey that explores the effectiveness of a parental involvement program. While this sample does not cover every possible topic, it does contain enough examples to show many factors that need to be reviewed when considering the success of parental involvement efforts. When schools are attempting to do a comprehensive survey process, they may find that breaking the survey into smaller pieces and administering it over a few weeks is a more manageable process.

This tool was adapted from two documents used by Mid–Atlantic Equity Center, Bethesda, Maryland, and Maryland State PIRC, Bethesda, Maryland. The complete versions of these documents are available at <http://www.maec.org/tadocs/pinvolve.html>.

Section 6

Tool 6.1: Parent-Friendly Information on Content Standards

This tool provides a sample document that can be used to help parents understand the importance and use of standards-based curriculum. There is no one best method for helping parents to understand how standards are a key component of school improvement; however, this tool is only one way to start the process.

This tool was adapted from a brochure created by the South Dakota State PIRC, Sturgis, South Dakota. The original version of this document is available at <http://www.sdpiroc.org/content/sdprn/docs/NCLBContentStandardsBrochure.pdf>.

Tool 6.2: Explanation for School Report Cards

This tool is an example of a resource that helps non-educators understand the information contained in school report cards. There is no required method for helping parents to understand these reports; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools assist parents in interpreting the information on report cards so that they are better able to support their child's education. This tool is one way to do so.

Tool 6.3: Explanation of State Accountability System

This tool provides a sample format for explaining the state's accountability system. It is intended to help non-educators understand the state's system. There is no required method for helping parents to understand this process; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools assist parents in understanding the accountability system and the information it produces so that they are better able to support their child's education. This tool is one way to provide assistance.

This tool was adapted from two documents—No Child Left Behind: For North Carolina Parents with Students Attending Title I Schools and No Child Left Behind: A North Carolina Parent's Perspective—prepared by Public Schools of North Carolina, Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, North Carolina. The original documents, in English and Spanish, are available at <http://www.ncpublicschools.org/docs/nclb/title1/materials/title1parents.pdf> and <http://www.ncpublicschools.org/docs/nclb/abcayp/materials/parents.pdf>.

Tool 6.4: Parent Action Resource

This tool is a parent-friendly sample of a resource to assist parents to foster student learning. There is no required method or form for doing this; however, it is required that SEAs, LEAs, and schools provide assistance to parents as they support their child's education. This tool is one way to provide assistance.

This tool was adapted from a section taken from the Public School: Success, One Student at a Time materials, created by the District of Columbia Public Schools, Washington, D.C. that was based on the U.S. Department of Education resource Helping Your Child Improve in Test-Taking available at <http://www.ed.gov/pubs/parents/TestTaking/index.html>.

Tool 6.5: Building Collaborative Partnerships Resource

This tool provides handouts and brief facilitation directions for a series of activities that can help to lay a foundation for meaningful engagement. Because school staff and parents see education from different perspectives, they must find common ground before they can become collaborative partners. There are no specific collaborative practices required for LEAs and schools in the Title I, Part A provisions. However, LEAs and schools are expected to meaningfully engage parents in supporting their child’s education and in developing their capacity, and staff capacity, to do so. This type of activity helps build shared goals and understanding about education that is often a foundation of strong parent–school collaborations.

This tool was adapted with materials from Policy Development Tools: Engaging Parents/Families in the School Community (2007), SEDL, Austin, Texas. The complete resource is available at <http://secc.sedl.org/resources/pdf/famInvolvePolicySECC92107.pdf>.
